Dedication.

To the

Right Hon. and Right Rev. Lord ARTHUR C. HERVEY, D.D., Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells.

My Lord,

It would have been meet and fit that a Work on the Cathedral Church should be dedicated to the Bishop of the Diocese, while the universal affection and esteem in which you are held by Clergy and People make it still more fitting; to say nothing of the personal obligations I am under to your Lordship's kindness and help.

I am painfully aware of the imperfections of the Work, but can only regret that circumstances prevented my making it more worthy of the Cathedral and of your Lordship's support, so kindly and readily rendered.

I am,

My Lord Bishop,

Your very obedient servant,

ARTHUR J. JEWERS.

Introduction.

IN submitting these pages to the Subscribers it will be well, in order to mitigate to some degree adverse criticism, to point out the original intention and object with which the Work was undertaken.

These were in the first place to preserve and render more generally accessible such memorial inscriptions and heraldry as still remain in the Cathedral and the Cloisters, the latter containing a large proportion of the inscriptions, for when the Cathedral underwent a general restoration, or, more correctly, renovation, the monuments underwent a promiscuous removal; the recumbent effigies were moved into what were considered more seemly or convenient positions; the mural tablets, more or less bereft of their surrounding ornaments, of pillar and pediment, shields and figures, were moved into the cold shelter of the Cloisters, where some bear ample testimony to their mutilated condition, while some we know have perished altogether.

Some will perhaps say, This is a small loss; they were seventeenth, some eighteenth century work. Quite true; but while we preserve with care all examples of earlier art, independently of their actual merits, have we any right or reason for destroying or neglecting these examples of a later age? We anathematize the iconoclasm of past generations, and develop an iconoclastic spirit in our own, with this difference, instead of getting rid of all that is old, we select according to an arbitrary rule; we preserve the history in stone of the earlier periods, and destroy the marble records of a later one—only, it would seem, because it is nearer to our own time.

Probably no church is renovated—restored is the common phrase—without some memorials being wantonly destroyed or mutilated; they are half covered by a pew or placed high up, so that they cannot be read, look as unsightly as may be, and hold the worshippers in fear of being crushed by their fall.

The inscriptions are given as they now stand, without attempting to correct inaccuracies or supply what is now illegible, except what had been already copied by Mr. FIELDER, whose MS. has been freely used. At the same time it appeared advisable, as likely to add both to the general interest and permanent value of the Work, if some notes were added from such original sources as parish registers and wills, and other sources not generally accessible, avoiding what has already appeared in print, unless for the purpose of clearness or completeness, and then as briefly as possible, such being confined almost entirely to a few extracts from the volumes of "Somerset Wills" collected by the late Rev. Frederick Brown and the Rev. F. W. Weaver's "Somerset Incumbents"—both essentially works of reference. In no sense do these notes profess to be a history or even a complete genealogical account of the families of all those who are in any way commemorated, for such is altogether beyond what was intended. These notes are of necessity very irregular, for, although it is believed that when descendants of the families could be found, and have been applied to for additional information, they have often neglected to respond; and, again, it has been found impossible to trace the representatives of many of the people commemorated.

In going over the ground, it became apparent that much of great interest would be lost if the Vicar's Close was not included; but if that was included, why should the Bishop's Palace be left out? Finally, it seemed to be the most satisfactory course to include what may be rightly considered the Cathedral Precincts; and this has been carried out, rendering the Work more complete. Nothing, it is believed, has been omitted within the limits laid down, while valuable corroborative evidence has been supplied by this extension.

As regards the monuments of the Bishops, they were all duly inscribed with the name of the prelate they were supposed to commemorate at the time the Cathedral was renovated, now nearly half a century since; but the value of the authority for the identifications may be judged from the remarks on the tombs inscribed to Bishop Bytton II. and Bishop Drokensford. There is ample evidence as to the arms and family of Bishop William Bytton I. and II. and of Bishop Drokensford to put the matter quite beyond a doubt. At the same time, there does not appear to be any reason to hope that most of the early effigies can ever be with certainty appropriated. Several are of much later date than that at which the persons they are supposed to commemorate died; consequently they are only mentioned as displaying certain inscriptions of modern date, without any attempt to prove or disprove the statements they set forth. To do more would be to trespass on the good work begun by the Sub-Dean, Canon Church, who has already given to the world most careful and exhaustive histories of Bishops Jocelyn and Severicus, supported step by step by reference to indisputable authorities; histories which we have reason to hope he will follow up by others.

Thanks are due to the Bishop and the late Dean for access to the heraldry of the Palace and Deanery; to the Rev. A. Coode, Chaplain, and the Rev. Prebendary Gibson, the President, for access to the Chapel, Library over it, and Common Hall of the Vicars, then the home of the Theological College, and since to their new Library; to Canon Church for the opportunities of making extracts from the Cathedral manuscripts; to Mr. Fielder for the use of his MS. copy of the inscriptions, which has supplied several portions of inscriptions now quite illegible; to Mr. Lowndes Gleaves, Chief Clerk of the Probate Registry, for his courteous attention and assistance in the long searches in that office, only a small part of the result of which appears here. Finally, but not least, we must thank the Dean and Chapter for permission to copy and print the inscriptions.

Many interesting additions might have been made from the Registers of Shepton Mallet and Bridgwater, but although a courteous request for permission to make extracts from these Registers, with full explanation of the literary purpose for which such were wanted, was made to Rev. Mr. Jones of the former and the Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald of the latter place, they practically refused to allow this to be done. For the numerous extracts from the Registers of St. Cuthbert, Wells, we are indebted to the Vicar, the Rev. Prebendary Beresford, who afforded every facility for transcribing the entries.

Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes have executed the printing in their usual praiseworthy manner, and by the way they have entered into his design for the arrangement of the Work have saved the Author much trouble; while the Photographs in the large-paper copies speak for themselves of the skill and care of Mr. Philips, of the Market Place, Wells, who has produced exceptionally good results under great difficulties regarding light.

WELLS CATHEDRAL:

Its Monumental Inscriptions and Heraldry.

THE CATHEDRAL.

Approaching the Cathedral from the Cathedral Green, we face the grand west front, which, though richly encrusted with statues and carving, the only shields of arms it displays are two on the north tower; these are (or) on a chev. (gu.) within a bord. eng. (sa.) a bishop's mitre (ppr.) for Bishop John Stafford: the same arms appear on the seal of this Bishop. The other shield has a saltire imp. a fess eng. betw. twelve holly leaves, 4, 4, and 4, in quadrangles, for Bishop Bulworth. Both these shields are modern additions, their general style and the fact of the incorrect arms being used for the See, leave no doubt of this being the case. By going to the north side of the Cathedral we shall be able to see a shield contemporary with the building of the tower, viz., a fess eng. betw. twelve holly leaves, 4, 4, and 4, in quadrangles, Bubwith; it is on the east face of one of the buttresses on the north side of the north-west tower high up, and there cannot be the least doubt that it was cut and put up at the time the tower was built, and is the oldest piece of heraldry in or about the building. Bishop Stafford became Archbishop of Canterbury, and his place in the pedigree of his family will be found on pedigree given hereafter. Bishop Bubwith has a chantry in the nave which will be noticed in due course. Bishop Bubwith's coat is also carved on the outside of the east cloister, above the entrance on the south side.

To the south of the west front of the Cathedral, on the external side of the wall of the west cloister, are the following on tilting shields, (az.) a fess betw. three swans' wings raised (arg.) Swann. Bishop Beckington as given hereafter. Barry of four (or two bars) a bend. There being no colours it is difficult to assign this coat. Grey, arg., two bars az. and a bend gu. These shields are of the shape of the tilting shield of the fifteenth century, and are confined to that end of cloister wall, the charges being nearly obliterated.

Entering the Cathedral from the west, we will take the monuments and heraldry in order as we come to them, proceeding up the north aisle of the nave into the north transept, down the centre aisle, returning up the south aisle, going round the south transept; hence passing through the door to the south of the choir, we will proceed round it, taking the chapels in order as they stand, including the Treasure

House, Chapter House, and Choir, leaving the cloisters, into which all the mural monuments have been moved, until last. This explanation will render needless further specifying the position of the monuments beyond naming the several parts as they are reached.

NAVE.

From East to West.

On the brass lectern are four armorial shields ; on each side of the book rest are, Erm., a lion ramp. collared. Crest, a dexter hand grasping a sword erect. Over the crest this motto "God grant" for Creyghton. Below the shield this inscription :

CREYGHTON. "Dr Robert
Creyghton upon his returne from fifteene years
Exile wth or Sovereigne Lord Kinge Charles ye 2nd Made Deane of Wells in ye yeare 1660, gave this brazen
Deske wth Gods holy worde thereon to the saide Cathedral Church."

In an ornamental scroll at the top are the arms of the See, on both sides, viz., a plain saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale, betw. two keys addorsed the bows interlaced on the dexter, and a sword erect on the sinister.

A large stone near the entrance to the choir has the matrix only of a brass for a lady beneath a canopy, two shields and a label round the edge for the inscription. The whole is of large size, and must have been a splendid example of a monumental brass of the period. The style of the high mitred headdress points to the date being about 1460.

A little further down is the stone pulpit erected by the direction of Bishop Knight, with his arms, now much mutilated, cut on the front, viz., Per fess, in chief a demi-eagle with two heads and sans wings issuing from a demi-rose conjoined to a demi-sun in splendour in base. This is more fully described where it occurs in coloured glass in the north choir aisle.

Near the pulpit, and on the south side of the nave, is the Chapel of St. Edmund the Confessor, erected by Dr. Hugh Sugar, one of the executors of Bishop Beckyngton; on the interior are several shields, on which are repeated this coat, three sugar loaves, and in chief a doctor's cap, for Sugar. Collinson gives the coat as Sa., three sugar loaves arg., and in chief a doctor's cap of the second. And on his authority Papworth gives the coat, but it does not appear what authority Collinson had for the colours. It is evident from the examples in the vicar's close, where an initial ꝺ takes the place of the cap, that the arms were originally a rebus or canting coat on his name.

On the exterior cornice of this chapel are twelve shields, namely :

Sugar, as above ; twice.

A vase from which issue three lilies, all between two wings points downward ; repeated twice.

(Vert), a cross flory (or), in dexter chief a demi-virgin with child ppr., for Glastonbury Abbey.

The initials H. S. ; twice.

The five wounds ; twice.

A saltire betw., on the dexter two keys addorsed, the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword erect ; twice. The deanery.

A saltire. The vicars.

Opposite to this chapel, and on the north side of the nave, is the chantry chapel of Bishop Bubwith; against the pillar at the west end is cut in high relief these arms, az., a saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale or, betw., on the dexter two keys addorsed, the bows interlaced, the first arg. the other of the second, and on the sinister a sword of the third, hilt and pomel gold, imp. arg., a fess eng. sa. betw. twelve holly leaves vert, 4, 4, and 4, arranged in quadrangles. Being the arms of the See impaling Bubwith. The shield is somewhat damaged, and the colours nearly gone, but can be supplied from coloured glass put up by himself in the library he built over the east cloister. This coat of Bubwith is not given by Burke or Papworth, they call the charges "bubbles." The coat occurs frequently carved and in coloured glass, so plainly that there cannot be the slightest doubt as to what the charges really are.

On the floor of this chapel is the matrix of a brass, a demi-figure of a priest issuing from an inscription plate; also four shields, and fillet round the edge of the stone.

A modern brass is inscribed, "Nic. Bubwith, Ep. 1424."

Above the arches, about half way down the nave on the south side, is what appears like the front of an altar tomb with three blank shields.

From a floorslab, on which the arms are well cut. The registers here and at St. Cuthbert supply us with some additional facts, while in the latter church this family are commemorated by a mural monument for Robert Kingston, M.A., Vicar of St. Cuthbert and of the adjoining parish of Wookey, who died 4 Aug. 1748, aged 43. The monument being erected by his daughter Elizabeth the 30th Dec. 1748. Arms, Az., a cross betw. four leopards' faces or. Crest, A leopard's face as in the arms.

A floorslab in the north transept commemorates Robert Kingston, Esq., son of the Rev. Robert Kingston and Mary his wife. He was a native of this city and a Major-General in the army, and died 24 Jan. 1819, aged 83. Also his sister Barbara Kingston, who died 24 Dec. 1819, aged 75. Arms the same as on the mural, but it is cut off from this slab, and is, like the inscription, nearly obliterated. Serel, in his history of St. Cuthbert's Church, gives the dates incorrectly, and gives the arms coloured as if from a mural monument that does not now exist, viz., KINGSTON (the field sa. and the heads argent), imp. Erm., on a head sa. three plates (? bezants, for St. Aubyns).

Margaret Kingston, daughter of the Rev. Robert Kingston, died 7 Nov. 1805, aged 67, and is recorded by a floorslab near that of her brother and sister.

The Robert Kingston commemorated with some of his family by the slab in the Cathedral was a lawyer and Diocesan Registrar.

St. Cuthbert Parish Register.

Baptisms.

1638 May 6 Pierce s. of Mr Thomas and Ann Westley.
1639 April 30 Dorothy dau. of Mr Thomas and Ann Westley, Vicar of St. Cuthbert.
1708 July 6 Elizabeth dau. of Mrs Frediswade Brickenden, relict of the Rev. Mr Edmund Brickenden, late dec., of St. Cuthbert Street, born 30 June.

Burials.

1610 Dec. 27 Ann Westley.
1653 Oct. 8 Ann dau. of Mr Thomas Westley and Ann his w., of Chelcott.
1660 Aug. 1 Elizabeth w. of Thomas Westley.
1707 Feb. 18 Mr Thomas Westley.
1719 Sep. 26 William Westley, Esq., buried in the Cathedral.

This William Westley appears to have used two shields of arms, for among the parish documents of St. Cuthbert are two with his signature and seal; in one case the seal has a shield charged with three cross-crosslets; the other document, date 1704, has these arms on the seal, viz., Per fess six escallop-shells, three and three, counterchanged. Crest, an escallop-shell charged with a cross-crosslet. No colours are on the seal, but we find on a monument in the cloister, Lovell impaling for Westley, Per fess arg. and gu., six escallop-shells, three and three, counterchanged, and this coat is also quartered by Salmon (Sa., three salmons hauriant arg.) on a monument in the Church of St. Cuthbert, for William Salmon.

Papworth gives for Wastley, Arg., three cross-crosslets saltire-ways with annulets at each end az. (and sometimes gu.); which is the coat on one seal slightly altered, but the other coat does not appear at all. What authority there is for either coat beyond assumption does not appear. The authority is perhaps very much better than is often the case, for if not registered in legal form at the College of Heralds, it does not appear to have been stolen from its lawful owner, which, alas! is frequently done.

The Rev. Thomas Westley, above, was instituted to St. Cuthbert's Vicarage 13 November 1634, and died at Butleigh, then being a Canon Residentiary of Wells. His will was proved 25 October 1662 by his son Thomas Westley. In it he names his son William, dau. Dorothy, and brother Billingsley.

In the great west window are two shields, the one, Erm., a lion ramp. sa., collared or. Crest, A cubit arm erect, the hand grasping a sword, all ppr., for Creighton. The other being charged with the incorrect arms of the See, Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly counterchanged imp., Az., a lion ramp. or, with what appears to be a pastoral staff in bend sinister. Over the shield is a bishop's mitre. These are not the arms of any Bishop of Bath and Wells. The error seems unaccountable; the window was reglazed by Bishop Creighton when Dean, and the glass taken down, cleaned, and refixed in 1813. There are two buckler-shaped shields charged with Az., a cross moline or. Probably not intended to be heraldic. One is below the figure ascribed to King Ina, the other beneath that of Bishop Ralph de Salopia.

Anno Domini 1644.

(Floorslab. On this stone is the matrix from which a square brass plate has been taken. The Cathedral Register records the burial on 8 Aug. 1666 of "Jane Wykes, widow of Mr Edward Wykes.")

He was the son of Nicholas Wykes of Wells, by Isabella dau. of Anthony Godwyn of Wookey; and mar. Jane dau. of Gilbert Bourne of Wells, by Eleanor dau. of Thomas Smith of Mitcham, Surrey; and had issue Edward, Philippa, and Elizabeth, according to the Visitation of Somerset 1623. But in his will, dated 14 June 17 K. Ch., prov. 29 May 1647 (P.C.C., Fines 93), he names one son, William Wykes, and daus. Jane, Alice, Silvester (mar. Geo. Huntley of Boxwell, co. SOUTH TRANSEPT.

THERE are no floorslabs in this transept.

A fine recumbent effigy under an enriched arch, with well-cut heads at each end, one with beard the other without, and at the back three figures of a bishop between two angels, the heads and hands gone, inscribed "Willelmus de Marchia Ep'c: Bathon: et Wellen's: A: D: MCCCII." The arms of Bishop William de Marchia were, Vert, two lions pass. or, according to Papworth, but there is no trace of them on the tomb; there are remains of gilding and colouring. Along the front by the edge of the table are six heads, alternately cleric and lay.

Adjoining the last is the canopied tomb of Johanna, Viscountess Lisle, for whose descent see post. The stonework is painted, but nothing remains to identify the monument but a brass plate with the following inscription:

DE LISLE.

"Hic jacet Joanna Vicecomitissa de Lisle, una filiarum et haeredum Thomae Chedder, Armiger; quae fuit uxor Joannis Vicecomitis de Lisle, filii et haeredis Joannis Comitis Salopiae, et Margaretae ux' ejus, unius filiarum et haeredum Ricardi Comitis Warwici, et Elizabethae uxoris ejus, filiae et haeredis Thom de Berkeley, militis Domini de Berkeley; quae obiit xv^{mo} die mensis Julii, Ann' D^{i} MCCCCLXIII."

(See Pedigree, post.)

In a window above this monument are two shields now coated and black, only traceable from below by the leading. They are, Gu., three lions pass. yard. or, within a bord. arg., and the same imp. quarterly, 1 and 4, Gu., a lion ramp. or, Fitz Alan; 2 and 3, Chequey or and az., Warren.

For Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, who being the half-brother of King Richard II. was authorized to use the royal arms within a bordure argent, in place of his own (Az., a lion ramp. gard. within an orle of fleur-de-lis arg.); he married Alice dau. of Richard Fitz Alan, Earl of Arundell. The pedigree appended to the account of the armorial tiles gives the descent.

Opening from the east side of this transept is the Chapel of St. Martin (now the Canons' Vestry), with the recumbent effigy of John Storthwait, Precentor 1426, and Chancellor in 1439. On the floor is the following:

GRENE

Hic jacet Joh's Grene coda
Canonic huis eccl' qui obiit die m^s^ Janua a^o^ d'ni M^o^CCCC^mo^.

From this transept we pass into the cloisters, and will take the monuments there in succession, after completing the interior of the Cathedral; we therefore return and enter the aisle on the south side of the Choir, where immediately on the right is the Chapel of St. Calixtus.

SOUTH CHOIR AISLE.

Chapel of St. Calixtus.

HUSSE. In this chapel is the alabaster monument of Henry Husse, Dean of Wells 1302—1305.

On the front of the tomb are four shields, with one at the west end; these were originally painted with the arms, as doubtless was another shield at the east end, now gone; the colours are gone, but sufficient stain remains on all, except the one at the west end, to indicate the charges that were on them, viz., Or, fretty and a chief gu.

Now this fretty coat is not that of Hussee or Hussey, a very ancient family in Somerset and Dorset, who bore two coats, viz., Or, a cross vert, and, Barry of six erm. and gu., but it points conclusively to the Dean's parentage, for we find that William Husee who was living in 1314 (7 Edw. II.) married Margery one of the daughters and coheirs of Theobald, Lord Verdon (by his first wife Maud, daughter of Edmund Mortimer and sister of the first Earl of March), who bore, Or, a fret gu.; sometimes given as fretty, thus paying a compliment to his mother, whose family was a noble one, the rules for quartering being not at that period fixed.

BECKINGTON. In this chapel are also the remains of a chantry chapel called Bishop Beckington's, but strange to say there is no trace of his arms or rebus about the remnants, though they so often appear on the archways, cloisters, etc., which owe their existence to him. There are two small shields held by angels, in the front of the canopy, but they are both charged with the sacred heart, hands, and feet, bearing the five wounds.

In the upper part of the window in this chapel, in very old glass, is a shield, Gu., four fusils conjoined in fess arg., Daubeney.

DAUBENEY. The ancient family of de Albini or Daubeney held among other lands the manor of South Petherton in Somersetshire temp. K. Henry I., which they continued to hold for several generations ; indeed the family has kept up its connection with this county to the present time. The date of the glass is probably the first half of the fifteenth century, and represents William Daubeney, Esq., of South Petherton, born 14 June 1424, died 2 Jan. 1460-1 (Esc. June 1461, 1 Edw. IV., No. 58), having married Alice, dau. and coh. of John Stourton of Preston, and was father of Giles, Lord Daubeney, who died in London 28 May 1508, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. He was Constable of Bristol, Master of the Mint, a Knight of the Garter, Governor of Calais, and Lord Chamberlain of the Household ; and left by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Arundell of Lanherne, Henry Daubeney, created Earl of Bridgewater, who married twice but died s.p. 8 April 1548 ; Cecily, married to John Bourchier, Earl of Bath ; and Amie, married Alexander Buller of Lillisdon, Somerset, Esq.

BUTTON Leaving this chapel and coming into the aisle on the south side of the choir, we find the recumbent effigy of a bishop ; also a raised tomb with the figure of a bishop incised on the top, close to which is inscribed "Willemus : De : Button Secon'd Epc' Bathon et Wellen's AD. M.C.C.LXIV."

BEKYNTON. Beyond the last is the recumbent effigy of a bishop without any name or arms. A few steps farther east is the tomb of Thomas de Bekynton, who died 14 Jan. 1464 ; it is enclosed by iron rails, and contains two stories ; on the top is the Bishop in full canonicals, and below his emaciated corpse, but no arms. The tomb is inscribed "Thomas of Beckinton Ep'us Bathon' et Wellen's, Anno D'ni M.C.C.C.C.LXIV."

The arms of Bishop Beckington which occur so often are (arg.) on a fess az., betw. in chief three bucks' heads caboshed (gu.) and in base as many pheons (sa.), a bishop's mitre (or). His rebus or badge, which is also carved in many places, is a fire beacon lighted, the part to hold the fire being in the form of a tun or barrel. In one of the windows of the south choir aisle his arms are given thus : Arg., on a fess az., betw. in chief three bucks' heads caboshed or, and in base as many pheons sa., a bishop's mitre, the ribbons extended, of the third. The same coat occurs in a window in Cheddar Church, with this difference, in the latter the fess is charged with a fleur-de-lys betw. two lozenges gu. Both these coats are heraldically wrong in placing metal on metal and colour on colour. Burke in his 'General Armory' gives the first coat, making the heads gules. Papworth's Ordinary, on the authority of Glover's Ordinary, gives for Bekington the first of the above coats, making the bucks' heads az., and substituting an annulet or for the mitre, apparently for a brother of the Bishop. In Pole's 'Devonshire Collections' the coat occurs with the mitre, but no tinctures, as in the cloisters and elsewhere, and the same is also cut in the stonework of the chapel of Wickham's School at Winchester. The shield at Cheddar is interesting as giving an example of an unrecorded difference of the arms. The origin of the coat is plainly suggested by two shields cut in the roof of the cloisters, in the account of the heraldry of which, they are mentioned.

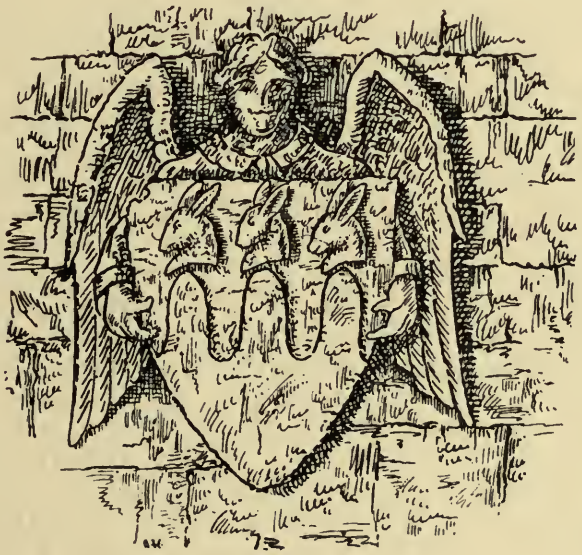
HAREWELL. Still farther east is the alabaster effigy of Bishop John Harewell, who died in July 1386. He chiefly contributed to building the South-West Tower, in which he hung two bells, and glazed the Great West Window. He has at his feet two hares, as a rebus on his name. There are no arms on the monument, but an old Worcestershire family—whose pedigree (Harl. MS. 1566) commences with a John Harewell who had two sons, John living in 7 K. Henry V. (1419-20) and William who married and left issue—bore for arms, Arg., on a fess nebulée sa. three hares' heads couped (sometimes erased) of the first. Crest, a hare's head erased or.

On the north and south sides of the tower of Litton Church is carved a large shield, held by an angel, charged with Per fess nebuleé, in chief three hares' heads couped. There can be no doubt that this is the coat of Bishop Harewell. On 1 Oct. 1366 Richard Harewell was installed a Canon of Wells and Prebend of Litton.



In one of the windows of this aisle are the following shields of arms :—

(First.) The arms of King James I. impaling those of his Queen, Anne, daughter of Frederick II., King of Denmark, viz., quarterly, 1 and 4 quarterly France and England, 2 Scotland, 3 Ireland, imp. quarterly, 1, Or, semée of hearts gu., three lions pass. az. crowned gold, Denmark; 2 Gu., a lion ramp. crowned or, holding an axe arg., Norway; 3 Az., three coronets or., Sweden or Scandinavia; 4, Or, a lion pass. az. over nine hearts gu. five and four. Over all dividing the quarterings, the Cross of Danneborg, viz., a cross arg. edged gu. On the centre an escutcheon of pretence quarterly, 1, Or, two lions pass. az., Schleswig. 2, Gu., an escutcheon per fess arg. and gu., each point thereof approached by a passion nail in triangle, betw. as many nettle leaves all arg., Schaumberg. 3, Gu., a knight armed or, his scimitar sa., riding on a horse arg., Dietmarsen. 4, Gu., a horse's head couped at the neck or, Lauenberg. In the base of the shield, Gu., a wyvern or, The Vandels. A portion of this shield appears in another part of the window, as also the arms of King James I. without those of his Queen occur in a mutilated state, with supporters, so that it is highly probable there were originally three shields, with the arms of the King and Queen each separately and also impaled together. The arms of this Queen generally have a second inescutcheon on top of the first, namely, Per pale, 1st, Or, two bars gu., Oldenburg; 2nd Az., a cross fitchée at the foot arg., Delmanhorst.

(Second.) Quarterly of four grand quarters, I. quarterly, 1 and 4 France modern, 2 and 3 England. II. Scotland. III. Ireland. IV. gone, but was the same as No. I. Supporters, dexter, a lion ramp. gard. crowned or; sinister, a unicorn ramp. arg. gorged with a coronet, with a chain reflexed over the back or, horned and unguled of the last. Crest, The lion of England. Motto, "Beati pacifici."

(Third.) Az., a saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale or, betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed, the bows interlaced, one of the second, the other arg., on the sinister a sword erect of the last, hilt and pomel gold. The ancient coat of the Bishopric of Bath and Wells.

(Fourth.) The same as the last omitting the pastoral staff. The united chapters of Bath and Wells, or the Deanery of Wells. Having now for the first time described an early example of the arms of the See, which cannot have been in any way altered, it will be appropriate to consider, from the evidences we possess, what are really the right arms of the Bishopric of Bath and Wells. The earliest examples of the arms of the Bishopric we have are a shield in the library over the east cloister, built by Bishop Bubwith, and undoubtedly contemporary with him; the shield in the chantry chapel of that Bishop, the shields in the window just mentioned, a large stone shield in the Palace, and the Vicar's Close, all dating from the fifteenth century. The shield in the library has unfortunately been broken, the part containing the pastoral staff being gone, and supplied by pieces of glass, one red above and one blue below. On Bubwith's tomb the arms for the See are as the third shield in the window above; and the charges are on the shield in the Palace, as also in the Vicar's Close, where it occurs frequently alone, and once impaling Beckington. It must be specially noted that in all the early glass, the saltire is plain gold. The same arms for the See, namely, the saltire with the keys, sword, and pastoral staff, are on the lectern given by Bishop Creyghton, on that Bishop's tomb, on a boldly carved shield of the arms of Bishop Pierce in the Palace Crypt, as also on the monument of Bishop Hooper. This evidence must be admitted to be fairly conclusive as to what were the ancient arms of this Diocese; yet it will be well to glance briefly at the origin of the double title, that we may trace the origin of this coat, and fully understand its historical interest and representative character, which leaves no doubt of the propriety of its retention. The origin of the modern coat will be shewn when treating of the Vicar's Common Hall.

In early Saxon days a Collegiate Church was established here, which was eventually made the head of the Somerset Bishopric, the church being dedicated to St. Andrew, and this continued until the time of Bishop John of Tours, consecrated in 1088, who obtained a charter from K. William II., dated 27 Jan. 1090-1, confirming to him the said John, heretofore Bishop of Wells, the Abbey of Bath, that he may establish there the seat of the Somersetshire Bishopric; in 1091 the same King gives to God, St. Peter in Bath, and John the Bishop, the city of Bath and its revenues, in order that the Bishop's seat may be in that city; and on the 5 April 1092 we find the same John Bishop of Bath assisting at the consecration of Salisbury Cathedral. Again a charter of K. Henry I., dated 3 Sept. 1101, confirms the gift of the city of Bath made by William II., and appointing that Bath shall henceforth be the head of the See of Somerset. The single title of Bath is continued until the episcopate of Saverie (or Savery), who, having dispossessed the Abbot of Glastonbury, added Glastonbury to his style, which was also used by Jocelyn until that Bishop restored the Abbey with most of its possessions to Glastonbury, when he returned to the title of Bath alone. Jocelyn then applied to the Pope (Honorius III.) for permission to use the double title of Bath and Wells, which application the Pope referred to his legate Pandulph. Nevertheless we find Jocelyn invariably styled Bishop of Bath only up to his death, when Innocent IV. confirmed the election by the monks of Bath of Roger, Precentor of Salisbury. The Pope having had the disputes and claims of the chapters of Bath and Wells for supremacy repeatedly before him, by decree dated from Lyons 3 Jan. 1244-5, decided that the election should be by both chapters equally, to be celebrated alternately at Bath and Wells, that each church should be a Cathedral church, and that the style of the Bishop should be 'of Bath and Wells', and that the double title shall be engraved on his seal. Nevertheless it would seem that Bishop Roger having been elected by the monks of Bath apparently in opposition to the Canons of Wells, was unwilling to add Wells to his title, his neglect of which having been notified at Rome by the Dean and Chapter, the Pope sent the Bishop a letter dated 14 May 1245 peremptorily commanding him to use the double title and to place it on his seal. From that time it has so continued. We see by this evidence that after first Wells and then Bath having been the seat of the episcopal dignity, both places were made jointly and equally Cathedral, under one Bishop.

Now let us consider the armorial question; the arms of the Abbey, or Priory of Bath, for at different times it held both positions, were az. two keys addorsed the bows interlaced, the upper or, the lower arg., and a sword of the last, hilt and pomel of the second, in bend dexter surmounting the lower and passing below the upper key. These ensigns were naturally adopted by the monks of Bath, displaying as they do the keys of St. Peter with the sword of St. Paul, the patron saints of their house. At the same time the chapter of Wells gave az. a saltire or, being the instrument of martyrdom of St. Andrew, to whom their church was dedicated. By the papal decree of 1244-5 the double title being firmly settled, it became necessary to represent the two electoral bodies as a matter of course, for at a time when armorial bearings were of such real importance, neither body would have been willing to go without heraldic representation, and this was readily done by placing the saltire of Wells between the keys and sword of Bath, while the pastoral staff in the centre fitly signified the union of the two flocks under one shepherd. Thus it will be seen how beautifully the old coat of the See represented the office of the Bishop of Bath and Wells; at the same time simple yet complete. It is true that at the Reformation the Priory being suppressed, has left the reconstituted Chapter of Wells alone surviving, still the double title of the Bishop remains; while the historic interest of the ancient coat must far exceed that of the modern coat, with its saltire of two metals, for which there appears to be no reason or object, and which was probably originally derived from its being the arms of the Corporation of Vicars Choral, as pointed out under the account of their Common Hall. The only examples of the modern coat before the present century are the brass of Bishop Lake, 1626, a very poor affair, which has the saltire divided by lines, as no colours are indicated; these may only be intended to give the idea of the saltire being raised. The remaining example is the monument of Bishop Still, but as the charges on the shields are not in relief, and the whole has been repainted in the present century, it is of no value for evidence.

On the monument of Bishop Berkley the saltire has no indication of being divided, and the omission of the pastoral staff, keys and sword, are doubtless the result of carelessness, the whole tomb being very roughly executed and bare of ornament. Bishop Creyghton's tomb exhibits both the plain saltire and the coat of the See, as on the tomb of Bishop Bulwith. Ignorance, with a want of due care and interest, are the true source to which we can ascribe the modern meaningless coat. With all this evidence before us there cannot be the least hesitation in saying that the ancient and correct arms of the See of Bath and Wells are, az. a saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale or, betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed the bows interlaced, the one of the second the other arg., and on the sinister a sword erect of the last, hilt and pomel gold.

Having gone thus fully into the question of the arms of the Bishopric, it will naturally follow here to say something about the arms of the Deanery, more especially on account of the arms in the fourth shield in the window mentioned above. Strictly speaking, we should expect to find the Dean and Chapter using the simple coat of the gold saltire, and such was doubtless sometimes the case, as we have an example of the plain saltire in the roof of the south cloister, and also on the shield on the seal of Dean Herbert. The tomb of Dean Husee, who died in 1303, has several shields charged with the fretty coat of his mother the heiress of Verdun; these were only painted on, not cut, and from the faint traces of the colouring, and the similarity of the form of the lines of the frets and the saltire, it is difficult to say if in two cases the plain saltire did not impale the fretty coat. The tomb of Thomas Cornish, Canon and Precentor of Wells, who died in 1415, and that of Dean Gunthorpe 1498, are the most direct evidence shewing that the Dean and Chapter did use the coat with the keys and sword as their arms, probably from their being joined with Bath Priory in the election of the Bishop, and as they are now the representatives of the two Chapters, there appears no reason against their continuing to use this ancient coat as their proper arms, especially as it is more distinctive, the arms being, Az. a saltire or, betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed, one of the second, the other arg., and on the sinister a sword erect of the last, hilt and pomel of gold. The addition of the keys and sword distinguishing more decidedly from the coat of the Corporation of Vicars, which was az. a saltire per saltire and quarterly counterchanged or and arg., as will be shewn more fully hereafter, and which came to be used in place of those of the See.

(Fifth.) Arg. an a fess az. betw. in chief three stags' heads cabossed or (? gu. or sa., as metal on metal is bad heraldry and against English usage), and in base as many pheons sa., a bishop's mitre or, bands arg.—the coat of Bishop Beckington. This coat with others is cut in the stonework of the chapel of Wykeham's School at Winchester. For notes on the formation of this coat see the heraldry in the roof of the cloister.

(Sixth.) Quarterly of six, 1. Barry of ten arg. and az. six escutcheons sa., each charged with a lion ramp. of the first—Cecil. 2. Per pale gu. and az. a tree eradicated vert, with a lion ramp. against it arg.—Winstone. 3. Sa. a plate betw. three towers arg.—Carlyon. 4. Arg. on a bend cotised gu. three cinquefoil or.—Eckington. 5. Arg. a chev. betw. three chessrooks erms.—Walcot. 6 as the first. Crest gone, motto Sero sed serio. Supporters two lions ramp. erm. This is doubtless for Robert Cecil, first Earl of Salisbury, so created 4th May 1605, and died 24 May 1612, ancestor of the present Marquis of Salisbury ; the cause of this coat appearing here being the fact that the Earl was at one time High Steward of the Dean and Chapter.

(Seventh.) Quarterly, 1 and 4, Arg. a chev. betw. three cross-crosslets sa. —Southworth. 2 and 3, Sa. a chev. betw. three cross-crosslets arg.—Dayes ; imp. Gu. a bend regulée betw. two cross-crosslets arg.—Pelsent. Under this shield is the date 1607. This coat is evidently that of Henry Southworth of Wyke Champflower, living in 1623, who was descended from Sir Gilbert Southworth of Southworth Hall, co. Lancaster, and his wife Elizabeth, dau. and h. of Nicholas Dayes of Salmsbury, co. Lanc., Esq. He married Elizabeth dau. of John Pellsant of London, by whom he had two daughters his co-heirs, Jane married to William Bull of Shapwick, and Margaret married to Arthur Duck, D.C.L. ; and on the monument of Henry Bull in Shapwick church the arms are quartered, viz. 1 and 6—or, three bulls' heads caboshed gu., Bull, 2 Southworth, 3 Dayes ; 4 quarterly gu. and arg., in the first and fourth a fret or,—Dutton. (The great grandfather of Henry Southworth, Sir Christopher Southworth of Southworth, married Isabel dau. and coh. of Sir Thomas Dutton of Dutton ; vide Visitation of Chester, Harl. Soc.) 5, gu. a bend embattled betw. two crosses crosslet arg., —Pellsant.

An abstract of the will of this Henry Southworth is in the collection of Somersetshire wills made by the Rev. F. Brown, and printed as a memorial of him. In it he styles himself, of Wells, Esq., but rightly citizen and mercer of London ; it is dated 23 May 1625, and was proved 12 Nov. 1625 by his daughters Margaret, wife of Arthur Ducke, and Jane, wife of William Bull of Shapwick, Esq. He names his 'brother Smith' and 'brother Fellgate,' and desires to be buried near his late wife at Wyke Champflower. This church is really a chapelry in the parish of Bruton ; it is very small, consisting of chancel, nave, and north porch, on which is the date 1623, and is built on to the old manor house, of which manor he was lord.

On the south side of the chancel is a mural monument to his memory, the inscription stating that he was Lord of this Manor, and died the 24 May 1625, and that the monument was erected to his memory by Arthur Duck, D.C.L., and William Bull, Esq. There are four shields of arms, first Southworth and Dayes quarterly as above, with a demi-lion for crest; second, the same arms imp. Pelsent as in the glass of the Cathedral window; third, or, on a fesse wavy sa. three lozenges arg., Duck; fourth shield, or, three bulls' heads erased gu., Bull; but the heads should be caboshed, as shewn below. The above Arthur Duck was born 1580 at Heavitree near Exeter, Devon (son of Richard Duck of Heavitree and Joan his wife); he matriculated at Exeter College, Oxford, 24th Oct. 1595, as son of a plebeian, became a Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford in 1604, a Doctor of Civil Law in 1612, admitted to the College of Advocates 25 Jan. 1633-4, was Chancellor of Bath and Wells, as also of London, M.P. for Minehead 1640. He lent £6000 to King Charles I., and had to compound with Parliament as a Royalist at £2000. He died in May 1649, and was buried at Chiswick. He was married at Wells by Bishop Lake to Margaret Southworth, as above, by whom he had two daughters his coheirs, viz. Martha the eldest, married first to William Duck, secondly to Nicholas Duck of Mount Radford, Exeter, her cousin, by whom she left issue a daughter Margaret, bapt. 14 Oct. 1654 at Heavitree, and married to Edward Mansell of Swansea, living 1695; and thirdly to Sir Thomas Carew of Haccombe as his second wife, and had a daughter unmarried in 1695. Mary, the second daughter, married William Harbord, Esq., of Grafton Park, co. Northampton. The arms of Duck on the monument at Wyke Champflower are those granted by Camden Clarencieux in 1602 to his brother Nicholas Duck, Recorder of Exeter and Bencher of Lincoln's Inn. There is a monument in Shapwick church which the inscription states was erected by William Bull to the memory of his wife Jane, eldest daughter and coheir of Henry Southworth of Wells, Esq. to whom he had been married 36 years and 3 months, and who died 30 March 1657. The said William Bull, Esq., J.P., died 22 Sept. 1676, aged 83. Arms, Or, three bulls' heads caboshed gu. Crest, a bull's head as in the arms. This is at the top of the monument; a shield at the lower part, now blank, had formerly no doubt the same coat impaling Southworth and Dayes quarterly.

(Eighth.) 1 and 4, Southworth; 2 and 3, Dayes as above, imp. quarterly 1 and 4, Sa. an eagle displ. with two heads arg., Lloyd. 2, Per fesse sa. and arg. a lion ramp. counterchanged; the coat of Enion Efell, Lord of Cymllaeth, son of Madoc, last Prince of Powys Fadoc, from whom these Lloyds were descended. 3, arg. a chev. gu. betw. three pheons sa., the two in chief fessways point to point, Kiffin, of co. Salop. Beneath this shield is also the date 1607. This is the coat of Edward Southworth of London, merchant, who married Jane daughter of Edward Lloyd of Lloyenmayne, co. Salop. Of his children, the eldest was the above Henry Southworth, and Thomas was Recorder of Wells, and living there in 1623, having married Jane, daughter of Nicholas Mynne of Norfolk. He made a nuncupative will dated 8 Sept. 1625 and proved 20 Dec. following, in which he is styled 'of Wells'; it states that he left all he possessed to Jane his wife, and that he died at Barrow. Jane, the widow of the above Edward Southworth, married secondly Francis Gunter, citizen and skinner of London (whose first wife was Elizabeth, daughter of John Pelsent, merchant of London.) In Barrow Gurney church is a flat stone to the memory of this Thomas Southworth, which has the following inscription on it, "Hic jacet Thomæ Southworth armiger legis consiliarius et in societate ora ciator, pacis et quorum justitiarius civitati Wellensi. A memoria custos rotulorum depu-tatus in comitate Som. qui obiit 8 die Septembris

anno Dni 1625
Ætatis suæ 61."

This slab is now (1889) on the floor of the chapel on the South side of the church.

Thomas Southworth's being buried here is accounted for by his relationship to the then owner of Barrow Court, Francis James, D.C.L., who had married Blanche Gunter, daughter of Francis Gunter, of London, by Jane daughter of Edward Lloyd, of Lloyenmayne, and widow of Edward Southworth, father, as named above, of Thomas and Henry Southworth, who were thus half brothers of Blanche James, and are both named in the will of Francis James as his brothers-in-law. The mural monument of Francis James in the same chapel of the church of Barrow has the arms of James (Sa. a dolphin embowed betw. three cross-crosslets or) impaling Gunter, Sa. three gauntlets arg. a crescent or.

BADGE OF RICHARD II. In this window is the badge of Richard II., a white hart lodged, horned, and unguled or, gorged with a coronet and chained of the last. The background here being blue sprinkled with small round yellow spots, which, except a few solitary spots, are arranged to form a conventional style of cinquefoil: the whole enclosed in a bordure of yellow pieces of glass.

BISHOP LAKE.

Here lyeth Arthur Lake Dr in Divinitie late Bushope of Bath and Wells who died
the 4th of May Ao 1626.

(From floorslab, with three plates of brass, the mitre, shield, and inscription, each being separate. They are very poorly executed.)

Arthur Lake was the son of Almerick Lake, of the parish of St. Michael, Southampton. He was Warden of New College, Oxford, Dean of Worcester, Archdeacon of Surrey, Principal Secretary of State to King James I., Bishop of Hereford, and consecrated 8 Dec. 1616 Bishop of Bath and Wells, dying unm. in 1626. He was a brother of Sir Thomas Lake, of Canons, co. Middlesex ; one of whose daughters mar. first William Cecil, Lord Roos, son and heir of Thomas Cecil, Earl of Exeter ; and secondly, to George Rodney, Esq., of Rodney Stoke, where she is buried beneath a monument with her effigy under an arch, over which is the crest of Lake, The head of a sea-horse couped and charged with a mullet, over a shield from which the arms are quite gone.

Arms on Bishop Lake's tomb: The See modern, imp. (Sa.) a bend betw. six cross-crosslets fitchée (arg.), on the bend a mullet (gu.) for diff. These arms are on the pulpit in Crosscombe Church, which was reseated, etc., during Bishop Lake's episcopate.

D.D.
Archdeacon of Wells and Canon Residentiary of this Church
October the first 1739.

Mrs Elizabeth Archer
his wife
November twenty-first 1733.
(Floorslab.)

The Rev. Edmund Archer was S.T.P., Archdeacon of Taunton 1712, of Wells in 1726, and the friend and correspondent of T. Hearne. He was a diligent and accurate student of the records of his Cathedral, as shewn by two MSS. now in the British Museum, containing a list of Somersetshire incumbents and patrons, which has been edited by the Rev. F. W. Weaver, M.A.

Dr. Archer sealed with these arms, (Az.) three arrows (or). Crest, From a crest coronet, a dragon's head, as appears from the Bubwith Almshouse deeds.

Both his own and his wife's burial are recorded in the Cathedral Register, as also that of a Mrs Anne Archer, probably a daughter, also recorded on a floorslab, namely—1733 Nov. 23 Elizabeth wife of Dr Edmund Archer, Archdeacon of Wells, died Wednesday 21 and buried Friday.

1733 Jan. 28 Mrs Anne Archer, died 21 Jan., bur. Monday.

method of arrangement was in use at that period, when the practice of placing the arms of an heiress on an escutcheon of pretence was not well established in general use. Crest, An arm in armour couped above the wrist, lying fessways (ppr.), in the hand a fleur-de-lys (arg.). His wife was probably one of the daughters and coheirs of Anthony Gay of Bristol (fourth son of Anthony Gay, son and heir of John Gay of Goldsworthy—see Col. Vivian's 'Visitations of Devon,' p. 393), by his wife Martha, daughter of Gabriel Sherman, Alderman of Bristol. A licence was granted at Wells, dated 29 Aug. 1673, for Thomas Gay of Barnestaple, co. Devon, gent., to marry Anne Cornish of Kingston nigh Taunton, spinster, to marry at Kingston or St. Mary Magdalene, Taunton. Bondsmen, John Godsall of North Petherton, gent., and Thomas Godsall of Staplegrove, gent. This Thomas Godsall was the husband of Anne Gay, sister of the above Thomas Gay, and of Anthony Gay of Bristol above. Among the parish papers of St. Cuthbert's, Wells, is one dated 22 May 1738, signed by two Justices of the Peace, George Bisse sealing with his own family arms, and R. Comes, who has the following arms on the seal attached to his name, being that of the City Clerk, a son of the above William Hughes, viz., Quarterly, 1 and 4, Hughes, as above ; 2 (Sa.) three scaling ladders, betw. the two upper ones a spear-head (arg.), embrued ; on a chief (gu.) a tower triple towered (of the second). Here lies the Body of M^rs^ Mary Prowse wife of Charles Prowse of Croydon in this county Esq. and Daughter of Thomas Carew late of Camerton Esq. who departed this life the 3^rd^ Day of May 1733 in the 30^th^ year of her age. (Floorslab.)

CATHEDRAL REGISTER.

1670 Dec. 2 Edmund Prowse, bur.
1733 May 8 Mary w. of M^r^ Prowse, bur.

Note. This Thomas Carew was the eldest son of Thomas Carew, Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London, and of Camerton, by his wife Mary, dau. of Thomas Heatley of London, Esq. Which Thomas Carew of London was the second son of Thomas Carew of Crowcombe, by Margery, dau. of Sir Thomas Wyndham of Orchard Wyndham. Thomas Carew married Elizabeth, dau. and h. of John Sanford of Nynehead, by whom he had three sons and seven daughters. Of these, two of the daughters are recorded above. Of the sons, Thomas left three daughters who all d. s.p.; George d. s.p.; and John left a son John, whose daughter Mary became sole heir, and marrying George Henry Warrington of Pentrepant Hall, who took the name and arms of Carew, was ancestress of the present coheiresses of Carew of Carew Castle, Crowcombe, and Pentrepant. Arms, (Sa.) three lions ramp. (arg., armed and langued gu.) within a bord. (of the second), Prowse; imp. (Or) three lions pass. in pale (sa., armed and langued gu.), Carew.

The will of the Rev. George Prowse, Rector of Litton, adjacent to Chewton Mendip, dated 3 March 1775, and proved 5 Dec. 1776, leaves to his sister Elizabeth Prowse of Chewton Mendip, spinster, £30. If she recovers her estate out of the hand of Sir William Yea, then no more, as she will be well provided for; but if she does not recover it, then she to have the rent of lands in Henton Bluett, about 17 acres, with house and garden. Names Maria, second daughter of the Rev. John Prowse, Rector of Camerton, who is afterwards called "my kinsman the Rector of Camerton." A certain leasehold close called Oatfield to his apprentice, Betty Vowles, daughter of Thomas Vowles, horse-driver, for her kind services past and to come, on which condition, and that of satisfying his trustees in the matter of her marriage, she is to have the bequest. Jane and Katherine, eldest and younger daughter of Mr. Francis Bradley, deceased, formerly an attorney of Bridgewater. The wife of Mr. Standfast of Bridgewater, and granddaughter of Mr. Hartnole, of Monkton Heathfield, deceased, a friend of testator. Trustees, the Rev. Dr. Annesley, Vicar of Chewton Mendip ; Mr. Edward Bilbee the elder, and Mr. Edward Bilbee the younger, both of Chewstoke. Seal, Three lions ramp. within a bord. Crest, From a crest coronet a demi-lion ramp., collared and chained. This seal is very interesting as giving the arms as on the floorslab, which does not appear on any of the Prowse monuments at Axbridge.

Note. This coat does not appear in Berry, Burke, or Papworth, but an engraving of the arms (Erm., on a chev. gu. betw. three ogresses as many garbs or), with the name Samuel Sheafe of London, merchant, is given in Guillim (ed. 1724), p. 268.

Thomas Sheafe, D.D., Prebendary of Windsor and Rector of Welford, Berks, had a son Thomas Sheafe, M.D., and a daughter Rebecca married at Chelsea, Middx., 6 Sept. 1632 to Thomas Haselrigge, Esq., who was buried in Westminster Abbey 30 Oct. 1651; his brother-in-law Tho. The above is the facsimile of a brass against the west wall of this chapel; never deeply cut, repeated polishings have rendered the lines so faint that it is almost impossible to get a good rubbing from it.

Coleridge has rendered the sentiment of the inscription in the following lines, which are hung near:—

"My worse part lives, my better buried lies.
Death is my Life; that he may live he dies;
To earth I trust these ashes and my woe;
Till to this dust I too as dust may go.
'Tis thus disconsolate a widow sings;
T. P. her cousin hopes for better things."

"J. D. COLERIDGE, 1874."

The idea of Coleridge is evidently that T. P. hoped to marry the widow; the addition in italics is certainly singular. Fortunately we have records which throw some light on the further history of the widow and her kinsman. We owe a debt of gratitude to the kinsman T. P. for inscribing his hopes on the memorial of his predecessor, for the hope which seems contained in the last line was realized, and Thomas Popham became the second husband of Martha Willis, the widow of Humphry Willis, as appears from her own will and that of her second husband. Thomas Popham, gent., was second son of Alexander Popham of Huntworth, by Dulcibella dau. of John Bayly, and succeeded his elder brother Edward at Huntworth. He married first Grace dau. and h. of William Dale of Laxton, by whom he had, with others, Thomas, whom he makes his executor, Martha Popham being one of the witnesses. The will of this Martha Popham, dated 24 Sept. 1654, and proved 9 Nov. 1654, names "my children Humphrey and Walter Willis, and Humphry son of the said Humphrey Willis. William, John, and Ann children of William Bellamie, dec., my late brother-in-law. M^{r} Thomas Popham my late husband's son a ring, and his wife Eleanor £10, or if she dies to her sister Ann Bellamy. My sister Thomasine Mills and grandchild Humphrey Willis to be executors."

Unfortunately we find no Willis wills in the Wells Registry to help us.

They appear to have been ignorant of their arms, at any rate none are on the brass. The arms of Carrick, (Or) a fess dancette betw. three talbots pass. (sa.), is on an escutcheon of pretence, shewing the wife to have been an heiress of the family of Carrick of Chipping Norton, co. Oxford. This family of Willis were probably the same as the one who took the name of Compton on inheriting the property of that family at Ringwood, Hants, and who quartered for Willis, Per pale gu. and arg., three lions ramp. counterchanged, within a bord. erm.

The following extracts from the Registers help to connect the family with Chipping Norton, but do little more.

ry Anno Dm. 1573.
(Mural brass.)

Note. From a small brass. Arms, (Vert) a saltire eng. (arg.), a crescent for difference of a second son. It is not quite clear who this Henry Hawley was, unless, as would appear from the date and difference in the arms, reliable at that period, he was the second son of the head of the family, that is, of William Hawley of Awler, co. Somerset, by Margaret daughter of Thomas Tymbury of Upton, co. Devon.

GUNTHORPE. An altar-tomb against the south wall of this chapel commemorates John Gunthorpe, Dean of Wells. Rector of Ditcheat from 7 Jan. 1465 to 23 March 1473, was made Dean of Wells. He was also Archdeacon of Essex, and Rector of Clay next the Sea, co. Norfolk, by Papal dispensation. It is inscribed, "Johannes Gunthorpe, huius eccl'ie Decan, A.D. MDCCCCXCVIII."

On the front are five shields. I. A saltire betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword erect, the Deanery. II. Quarterly: 1 and 4, Gu., a chev. betw. three petards or hand-grenades arg., within a bord. eng. or, Gunthorpe; 2 and 3, (Arg.) a chev. betw. three lions' heads erased (sa.), Allerton. III. (. . . .) A chev. erm. betw. three cross-crosslets (. . . .), ... ? IV. Gu., on a bend componée arg. and az. three leopards' heads or, betw. two lions' heads erased of the second, all within a bord. as the bend, Fereby or Feryby of Lincolnshire. This coat is sometimes ascribed to Gunthorpe. V. The initials I. G., for John Gunthorpe.

The first and fourth coats in the second shield appear to be the family arms of the Dean, and appear quartered in the same way at the Deanery. The arms on the fourth shield is ascribed by Burke to Gunthorpe, but doubtless erroneously. The family appear to have come from Lincolnshire or Norfolk, and a John Gunthorpe was an executor of the will, dated 16 April 1398, of Sir Philip D'Arcy, Knt.; and it is very suggestive and interesting that one of his co-executors was Robert Wyclyfe, whose family bore, Arg., a chev. sa. betw. three crosses botonée gu. White ermine spots being very likely placed on the chevron as the difference of a younger branch. There is a very slight trace of colouring on these shields.

Juxta maritum veritas Jenkyns filia unica Grey Jermyn Grove de Alveley in com. Salop arm. et uxor Ricardi Jenkyns, S.T.P. hujus eccles Decani erga Deum vere pia erga homines vere benevola in christo placide abdormivit jun . I . M.D.C.C.C.LVII æt. LXVII.

Note. This is an ornamental cross, forming the top of a raised monumental slab, the first inscription being on the north side, the second being on the south side. The same arms on each side, viz., Az., on a cross saltire eng. or four crosses patée fitchée points to the centre sa., Jenkyns ; on an escutcheon of pretence, Erm., on a chev. eng. gu. three escallop-shells or, Grove. The Dean's wife was Troth (or Truth), daughter and heir of Grey Jermin Grove, descended from the marriage of James Grove, Sergeant-at-Law, with Lady Jane Grey, sister and coheir of Thomas, second Earl of Stamford, and daughter of Thomas Lord Grey of Groby (who died in the lifetime of his father, the first Earl of Stamford), by his wife Dorothy, second daughter and coheir of Edward Bouchier, third Earl of Bath. She was consequently one of the coheirs to the Barony of FitzWarine. She left no issue, and appears to have been the last of her father's family. The pedigree of the Dean's family is appended.

Note. She is named as "daughter Elizabeth" in the will of her father Edward Berkeley of Pylle, dated 4 Dec. 1669 ; and as "Elizabeth wife of John Bailey, Esq., Chancellor of Bath and Wells," in the will of her brother Maurice Berkeley of Pylle, dated 22 Feb. 1677. Her mother was Philippa, daughter of .... Holland of Sussex, and relict of Thomas Kitson of Wells (a kinsman of Sir Thomas Kitson of Hengrave), whose will she proved 12 Feb. 1616 as Margaret Berkeley alias Kitson, having been married to Edward Berkeley of Pylle at S^{t} Cuthbert, Wells, 29 Jan. 1615–6.

DROKENSFORD. An altar-tomb with an alabaster effigy of a bishop in his robes, recumbent, is inscribed "Gulielmus Bytton, p'mus Episc' Bathon' et Wellens' MCCLXIX." This assignation of the tomb is proved to be wrong by the following evidence. Round the tomb are painted twenty-six shields, viz., Quarterly or and az., four birds' heads addorsed and counterchanged, Drokensford ; and, Erminois, on a chief gu. two stags' heads caboshed or, Popham. The above coat does not appear in Glover's 'Ordinary,' Burke's 'General Armory,' or in Papworth's book, but it is proved conclusively to be arms of the Droknesford or Drokensford family from a seal attached to a grant from Philip de Droknesford, son and heir of Philip de Droknesford, to John de Godeley (Dean of Wells) and his brother Hamelin, of messuages and land in Ockhampton, in the parish of Wivelscombe, which he holds from his uncle John de Droknesford. Dated at Wells the Friday after the translation of St. Thomas the Martyr 1332. To this the seal of Philip de Droknesford is fortunately still attached, and nearly perfect. The arms are quarterly (colours not shewn on seals of that date and long after), and four swans' heads couped and addorsed, in chief a label of three points, the difference of an eldest son. Round the arms part of the legend, Phil : de Drokne . . . . . Another grant from the same Philip calls him brother and heir of John de Droknesford, deceased, late Bishop of Bath and Wells. The coat of Popham appearing on the tomb equally with that of Drokensford is strong presumptive evidence on which to assume that his mother was of that family, perhaps the heiress of a younger son. These evidences add some points to Mr. Greenfield's pedigree ('Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' vol. ii., second series, p. 314), which, with these additions, as far as it immediately relates to Drokensford, we may reproduce here.

. . . . Drokensford.

Philip Drokensford = ... ? Popham.

John de Drokensford, from whom his nephew Philip de Droknesford held land in Wivelscombe.

Philip de Drokensford, did homage for the Bishop's lands 29 June 1329. [Fines Roll, 3 Edw. III., m. 9.] = ...

John Drokensford, Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1309–1329; ob. 9 May 1329. [Esc. 3 Edw. III., No. 41.]

Joanna Drokensford. = Philip Crook.

Joan Crook = William Avenell.

Sir John de Clyvedon, Knight, Lord of Clyvedon, Somerset; will proved 1336. [Reg. Rad. Salopia, 144, at Wells.] See Addenda. = Mary Drokensford. In 12 Edw. II., 1388, Matthew de Clyvedon, Knight, grants to his son John de Clyvedon, and to Maria de Droknesford, wife of the said John, lands in Shipham.

The above is proof beyond question as to the arms of Bishop Drokensford, and satisfactorily identifies his tomb. It may be well to state that in the abstract of the Dean and Chapter Charters, by Mr. De Gray Birch, the arms are said to be a cross between four chessrooks, but it is difficult to understand how he made the mistake, as the seal is very clear. He also omits to say that the grantor is styled, son and heir of Philip de Droknesford. It is, "Q^{d} scien' p'centes omnia ego Ph'us de Droknesford filius e heres Ph'i de Droknesford redi concess'," to John de Godele and Hamelin his brother, certain messuages and lands at Okhampton in the parish of Wyvelscombe, which he holds of John de Droknesford his uncle. The deed is dated at Wells on the Friday after the Feast of the Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr, 5 Edw. III. (1332), and it is witnessed by John de Clevedon and others. In a later deed this Philip styles himself brother and heir to the Bishop.

He was the second son of Henry Walrond, Esq., of Sea in Ilminster, who was admitted to the Inner Temple 15 June 1562 (son & h. of Humphry Walrond of Sea, by Elizabeth, dau. and h. of John Brokehampton of Sea), by his wife Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of William Devenish, Esq., of Hellingleigh, co. Sussex, a coh. to the barony of Welles. He proved his father's will 26 May 1617, and had to compound for his estates during the Civil Wars in 1646 by the description of William Walrond of Wells. He married and left several children. The youngest son Amos is buried, with a monument, in this Cathedral, and one of the daughters was the wife of Bishop Creyghton (see her monument).

A large white marble monument, with the figure of a man seated in a chair, by Chantrey, dated 1837, bears the following inscription :—

PHELIPS.

Sacred to the memory of John Phelips
of Montacute in this county Esquire Descended from a line of ancestors whose names for two centuries and a half abound in the annals of this county;
he succeeded at an early age to his paternal estates and sustained the wonted hospitality of his house ;
he soon became a most active and intelligent magistrate.
In 1815 was High Sheriff and in 1819 was unanimously placed in one of the chairs of the Court of Quarter Sessions, a station which he continued to fill,
until acute disease suddenly stopped his career of usefulness on the 20th of April 1834 at the premature age of 50 years.
In testimony of the admiration and respect excited throughout the county by the able exercise of his judicial functions, in which though not educated to the law
he was equalled by few, surpassed by none, this monument was erected by his surviving friends.

Note. He was the eldest son of the Rev. William Phelips, by Anna Aletheia Elizabetha, daughter of the Rev. John Paget, Vicar of Doulting, co. Somerset, and married in 1816 his first-cousin Mary Ann, daughter of the Rev. Charles Phelips, and left an only daughter Mary, married to James Farquharson, Esq. Mr. Phelips dying without heirs male, the estates reverted to his nephew William, son of his brother the Rev. William Phelips. The arms used by this family are, Arg., a chev. betw. three roses gu., barbed and seeded ppr. Crest, A square beacon or chest on two wheels or, filled with fire ppr. But in the Herald's 'Visitation of Somerset in 1623' the arms entered with the pedigree are, Arg., a lion ramp. sa., collared and chained or.

MARCEL. Near the last is a canopied tomb ascribed to Bishop Drokensford, but as it has been already shewn that beyond doubt his tomb is in another place, and there is nothing to shew to whose memory it was built, it might be, and very probably is, for John Marcel, who died in 1341, having founded a chauntry in this Chapel of St. Catherine. The legend on the edge of the tomb is, "Johannes Drokensford Episc' Bathon' et Wellen's MCCCXXIX. There is no effigy or arms; a shield is outlined on the screen at the east end of it charged with a Holy Lamb.

In the space at the back of the High Altar, between it and the Lady Chapel on the east and the chapels on the north and south, are the following floorslabs:—

ADAMS. GODWYN. A large floorslab much defaced has (round the edge) . . . . huich (?) next wife of Thomas Godwyn, Doctor of Divinity . . . . ; (in the middle) Here lyeth the Body of Mistris . . . . Adams, mother of the said Doctor Richard Adams, Anno 1626.

Note. The will of Phillipe Godwyn of Wells, dated 26 Jan. 1655 ; proved 9 April 1657 : Desires to be buried at Brightwell in Berkshire, in the chancel "near my husband Dr Godwyn, but if not convenient, then by my former husband Dr Adams in St Andrew's Church at Wells." Names her brother John Bourne and his wife ; my sister Jane Wykes ; cousin and nephew William Wykes ; cousin Jane Wykes and her two sons William and Thomas ; cousin Carliel ; cousin & nephew Roger Bourne ; cousin Philip Bourne. This lady was a daughter of Gilbert Bourne of Wells, by Eleanor, daughter of Thomas Smith of Mitcham, Surrey, and just enough of the inscription remains to shew that the second alternative in her will regarding her burial took place. The will of her first husband Richard Adams, D.D., Canon Residentiary of Wells, dated 28 Jan. 9 K. Charles, and proved 24 April 1634, appoints her his executrix, and names his brother Robert Adams, D.D., and his son Robert Adams, and is witnessed by John Bourne and Edward Wykes. This Dr. Godwyn must not be confounded with the family of the Bishop of Bath and Wells of the same name, but of a distinct family. The above Dr. Godwyn was a son of Thomas Godwyn of Abingdon, Berks, and grandson of Anthony Godwyn of Wells.

BOURNE. Here lyeth the body of John Bourne of

Will of J. Bourne.

John Bourne of the Liberty of St. Andrew, Wells. Will dated 30 Dec. 2 James II., 1686 ; proved 28 April 1687 at Wells. Gives his lands of inheritance in the parish of Hambleton, co. Hants, to his brother Philip Bourne and his heirs for ever, but to sell it if need be speedily and pay Mr. Darbyshire of Droxford the money owed him by testator. Philip Bourne of Farley, Hants, yeoman, executor.

Will of G. Bourne.

Gilbert Bourne of Rode in North Petherton. Will dated 23 April 1686 ; proved at Wells 15 June 1686. Names £1400 due out of £3000 by the will of Roger Bourne, Esq., dec., brother of testator ; eldest s. Edmund Bourne ; s. John ; wife Susanna ; education of five younger children. Seal, (Arg.), a chev. (gu.) betw. three lions ramp. (sa.), a chief ermines. Crest, A demi heraldic tiger (arg., tufted, maned, and armed sa., collared erms.).

Will of S. Bourne.

Susanna Bourne of Roade, widow. Will dated 15 June 1715 ; proved 1715 at Wells. Names daughters Sarah Bourne, Elizabeth Walker, Susannah Bourne, Ann Bourne ; son-in-law John Walker ; picture of " my Father and Mother Bourne." If dau. Ann married one William Gatcombe of North Petherton, her share to go to dau. Susannah. Seal, a fine scroll bordured shield charged with a lion ramp. crowned (Arg., a lion ramp. sa., crowned or, Morley). John Morley a witness. The same seal is appended to the will of John Morley of North Petherton, gent., proved 29 July 1729 ; but as the will contains no reference to the Bournes, he was probably not related to them.

Will of J. Bourne.

Jonas Bourne the elder of Wells, woollen-draper. Will dated 1 Sept. 1724 ; proved 6 May 1726 at Wells. Names s. William Bourne, house in the High Street called " The Ship "; s. Thomas Bourne, the Inn called the " Queen's Arms " ; two cottages in New Street; a close called Braindiron in New Street, occupied by George Baker ; sons Jonas Bourne and Francis Dennis Bourne.

Will of G. Bourne.

George Bourne of Clevedon, yeoman. Will dated 12 Nov. 1668 ; proved at Wells 2 Dec. 1668. Names dau. Jane w. of John Maskell (" as I suppose ") ; dau. Elizabeth Maskell ; sister Lucy Beakes ; wife Joane Bourne ; grandson Richard Maskell, son of Richard Maskell. Inv. £220 5s. 8d.

Richard Bourne of Poulton. Nuncupative will dated 8 May 1676. Names a wife and dau.

The Registers of Durleigh are lost until too late a period to be of any service, and these wills are of no help for the immediate purpose of identifying the John Bourne of the floorslab.

Will of Dr. Bourne.

The will of John Bourne, D.D., Canon Residentiary of Wells, dated 23 March 162½ ; proved 4 June 1622 (53 Savile). To be bur. in the Cathedral, near his wife, and his son Gilbert Bourne, and other friends. Names daughters Baynham, Elizabeth Bishop, Eleanor Carliel, and Susan Bourne; brothers William, Roger, and Jasper Bourne ; and the wife of his brother Roger Bourne. Testator's son John Bourne.

Will of J. Bourne.

This son is the John Bourne of the floorslab. His will is dated 21 Aug. 1651 ; proved 19 Aug. 1652. To be bur. in Wells Cathedral near his father and mother. Names his cousin John Bourne of Gothelney, whose posterity are most concerned in testator's moiety of Bishop's Teignton which he has sold ; wife's son M^{r} Henry Still (see Pedigree of Still), and her dau. M^{rs} Cottesham ; sister, wife of Adam Baynham ; sister Anne's children ; cousins Thomas Bishop, Francis Bishop, Francis Carliel, Christopher John Carliel, Francis Cross, Richard Cross and Philippa Cross, Stevens, Wykes, and Godwyn ; sister Carliel ; Uncle Jasper Bourne's dau. ; cousins Elizabeth and Jane Benett. House at Wells, chambers at Lincoln's Inn.

WILL OF G. BOURNE.

Gilbert Bourne, D.C.L. Will dated 10 Dec. 1595; proved 3 Feb. 1595–6. To be buried in Wells Cathedral near his wife. Son John Bourne; daus. Mary, Jane, Philipe; brothers John Bourne (Treasurer of Wells Cathedral) and Roger Bourne.

WILL OF R. BOURNE.

Roger Bourne of Wells, Somerset, Esq. Will dated 2 Feb. 1623; proved 5 May 1624. To be buried in the Cathedral of St. Andrew, Wells, where his father and mother lie interred. Names wife Jane (dau. of Richard Tothill of Shardeloes, co. Bucks); wife's brother M^{r} William Tothill; brothers Jasper Bourne of London, gent., D^{r} Bourne; John s. of brother John Bourne, dec.; Bridget, wife of brother William Bourne, dec.; cousins Adams, John Bourne of Wilscombe (Wivelscombe), John Bourne of Wells, Weekes, Edward Wykes, Esq.

WILL OF J. BOURNE.

John Bourne of Gothelney in Charlinch, co. Somerset. Will dated 14 June 1656; proved 21 Oct. 1656. To be buried in Wells Cathedral near his ancestors. Eldest s. Roger, s. Henry, s. Gilbert, s. Thomas, younger sons under 16 years of age; daus. Mary, Philippa, Silvestre, Jane, and Frances; sons-in-law M^{r} Stanhope and M^{r} Fleming; nephew M^{r} William Wyks; sister Godwin.

From a floorslab, bearing a long cross between a pastoral staff and two shields, one charged with modern coat used for the See; the other, Erm., two chev. az., Bagot; enamelled in their proper colours, on brass, the inscription being on a brass fillet round the edge. On the steps of the cross is engraved, "Miserere mei Jesu." The arms of Bagot here should have a mullet for difference, the Bishop being the third son of Sir William Bagot, sixth Bart. and first Lord Bagot. Bishop Bagot married Lady Harriet Villiers, youngest daughter of George Bussey, fourth Earl of Jersey, by whom he had six sons and three daughters, whose numerous descendants are given in Foster's 'Peerage.'

BARNARD. In memory of the Rev^{d} Henry Watson Barnard, Canon Residentiary of this Cathedral, and Vicar of Saint Cuthbert's, who died at Granada, Spain, 9 July 1855 aged 63. And of his children, Frederick Charles, who died 6 June 1838 aged 6 months; and Eleanor Beadon, who died 13th August 1846 aged 25.

Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

(Floorslab, with a floriated cross, the inscription round the edge, and at each corner a shield with the incorrect coat of the See, all on brass.)

Their lot is amongst the saints.

Here also lieth interred
The remains of William Burland, cl: M.A. a man eminent for his great natural and Improved abilities
For a quick penetration into Human character
an unconfined benevolence
A lively and undistinguishing raillery Without partiality and Without asperity except Where meanness or vice
Seemed to provoke correction.
Unshaken in the principles of his faith &
uninfluenced by vicious example.
In very early life
He was seized with a disorder Judged incurable but which With determined fortitude and an habitual cheerfulness
He continued to support
Till death for which
He had long been prepared
Put a period to his sufferings
In the 31st year of his age and in the year of our Redemption 1764.

This small tribute of affection to his memory his beloved sister Anne Keate with gratitude inscribes.

GOODENOUGH. A large slab, a long cross on steps, and under a canopy at the foot of the cross St. Andrew holding his cross, all brass. On the steps is cut, "Dne memento mei cum beneris in regnum tuiis." Round the stone is a brass fillet bearing the following inscription: "Hic Jacet D'n's Edmundus Goodenough sacre Theologie p'fessor qnondum denanus hujus eccle'i et prebendarius ecclesui Eboracentis e Carliol olim scolaris collegii S'c'i Petri Westmonast. alumnus ædis Xti Oxon: prebendarius ecclie s'c'i Petri Westmonast. ac informator collegii sup'dicti qui obiit ii die mensis May Anno D'm' MDCCCXLV. cujus animæ propicietur Deus. Amen." At the corners and at each side are roundels bearing the six shields described below.

Outside the fillet and cut in the stone is this additional record:

Sophia Goodenough
Born May 15, 1823.
Died Janry 21, 1838.

He was the third and youngest son of the Right Rev. Samuel Goodenough, D.D., Bishop of Carlisle (third son of the Rev. William Goodenough, Prebendary of Brecon, sometime Rector of Kimpton, Hants), by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. James Ford of St. George's, Hanover Square, an eminent physician; and was born at Ealing, Middlesex, where his father at that time had a school. He matriculated at Oxford, from Christ Church (elected from St. Peter's College, Westminster), 15 May 1801, aged 16; B.A. 24 Jan. 1805; M.A. 22 Oct. 1807; B.D. 30 April 1819; and D.D. 20 Oct. 1820. He became Vicar of Warkworth, co. Northumberland, in 1818, Sub-Almoner to the King, and was Head Master of Westminster School from 1819 to 1828. He was a Prebendary of York 23 June 1824, and of Carlisle 22 April 1826, and was installed Prebendary of Westminster 2 June 1826. He became Dean of Wells 6 Sept. 1831. He married in 1821 Frances, daughter of Samuel Pepys Cockerell of Westbourne House, Paddington, Middlesex, Esq., by Anna his wife. She died at Granada, and was buried at Malaga, Spain, in 1855, and had Frances, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 27 Feb. 1822, buried there 29 April 1828; Sophia, born 13 May, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 3 July 1823, died at Wells Jan. 1839, and is buried in the Cathedral; Annabella, born 14 Nov. 1824, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 5 March 1825, married in 1853 Henry William Crauford, Esq., Capt. R.N. (who died in 1859), and was living at Lyndhurst, Hants, in 1870 with a son and daughter; Lucy, born 11 Feb., bapt. in Westminster Abbey 7 June 1826, living unmarried at Lyndhurst, Hants, in 1870; Frederick Addington, born 6 July, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 27 Nov. 1827, admitted to St. Peter's College, Westminster, in 1841, became a merchant at Calcutta, and died Sept. 1869 on his voyage home, and was buried at sea; Edmund Vernon, born 30 June, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 17 Dec. 1829, and was buried there 24 April 1838; James Graham, born 3 Dec. 1830, bapt. in Westminster Abbey 5 Feb. 1831, entered the Royal Navy, living a Captain in 1870, and recently in command of H.M.S. Minotaur.

The arms on the six shields are, 1, Gu., two keys in saltire arg., in chief the royal crown ppr., Archbishopric of York; 2, Arg., on a cross sa. a mitre with bands or, See of Carlisle; 3, Arg., a chev. gu. betw. three gutté de sang, Goodenough, impaling, Arg., betw. two flanches gu. a leopard's face encircled with laurel vert, inter two cocks in pale of the second, Cockerell; 4, Az., two keys addorsed arg. in bend sinister, the lower one surmounting a pastoral staff in bend dexter or, intended for the Deanery (but wrong, being the modern invention, without any authority or reason; the arms of the Deanery have been already pointed out), imp., Goodenough as above; 5, Az., a saltire quarterly and per saltire arg. and or counterchanged, the modern coat of the See; 6, Az., a cross flory betw. five martlets or, a chief of the last, thereon inter two roses gu. a pale quarterly, 1 and 4 France modern, 2 and 3 England, Westminster School.

Brass for a priest, with a canopy, but no shield; the matrix alone remains, the brass itself having been removed. At the top, to the left, are the letters F. P. B., modern, and at the foot of the same stone is cut the following:

BRAILSFORD. Matthaus Brailsford annos xx obiit 13 Decembris 1733 æt. 73.

Matthew Brailsford, Dean of Wells 1713-33, became D.D. 23 July 1713.

Cathedral Register.

1733 Dec. 15 The Rev. D[r] Matthew Brailsford, Dean of Wells, bur.

Lady Chapel.

ZOUCHE. In the window next the last one on south side are France and England quarterly, much mutilated. In the second one to the west on the north side there are two shields, one, Gu., ten bezants, Zouch, and Barry of six or and vert, charged with fourteen lozenges (or perhaps roundels), 4, 4, 3, 2, 1, counterchanged. This coat is very doubtful, and is probably made up, like a greater part of these windows, of odd pieces of very old glass. The coat is not given by Papworth, and looks unreal.

Frequently repeated in the encaustic tiles covering the floor are the following coats, viz., Az., a crozier arg. in bend dexter, interlaced with two keys or in bend sinister, imp. Arg., a chev. gu. betw. three gutté de sang; also Or, three chev. gu., De Clare. The former has already been noticed as on the memorial of Dean Goodenough. Why De Clare should be put here does not appear.

Chapel of St. Stephen.

DE HULLE. In this chapel was the Coombe Chantry, founded by Walter de Hulle, Archdeacon of Bath and Sub-Dean of Wells 1342. He was a benefactor of the Cathedral and Vicars-Choral; Rector of St. Thomas 1325, and of Beauchamp 1328.

BISHOP LEOFRIC. The recumbent effigy of a bishop inscribed, "Leverious, Epc. Wellensis," for Bishop Leofric (1001); and another, "Eilwinus, Epc. Wellen.," being for Bishop Ethelwyn, who succeeded in 1013.
BISHOP ETHELWYN.

On the floor is the matrix of a large brass; there is no sign of any shield having formed part of it, and the matrix is much worn.

Mr. James Parker of Oxford thus translates the inscription (that round the edge) : "Behold thy soul Gilbert Berkley (now) safe, having broken its prison bonds in the beginning of November, speaks from the sky (above)." These words give the year of its safety. The words referred to being those in the centre, which read, "I have lived, see my reward. I have shone returning to my rest. Having held the office of Bishop for thrice seven years." The figures 83 are cut at the side of the centre inscription, the words giving his age, 83, being Vixi, Luxi. Gilbert Berkeley was a native of Norfolk, but descended from the ancient Gloucestershire family, as the arms shew, the rose on the chevron being for difference.

CREYGHTON. Marble sarcophagus, on top of which is the recumbent alabaster effigy of a bishop in full canonicals. On the front are three shields, viz., first the Bishopric, Az., a saltire surmounting a pastoral staff or, cantoned on the dexter by two keys addorsed the bows interlaced, on the sinister a sword (arg.); second, Erm., a lion ramp. (az.), crest, a cubit arm holding a dagger erect (all ppr.), Creyghton; third, (Az.) a saltire (per saltire and quarterly counterchanged arg. and or). At the end of the tomb, Per pale the dexter as the last, the sinister Creyghton as above, over the shield a bishop's mitre. This commemorates Bishop Creyghton, D.D. There was formerly a Latin epitaph, now in the south cloister, describing him to have been born at Dunkeld, in Scotland, and descended through his father from the ancient Lords of Ruthven, and through his mother Margaret Stuart from the latter illustrious family. The Bishop married Frances, daughter of William Walrond, Esq., of Sea in Ilminster, Somerset. The effigy is said to be a likeness of the Prelate, but the monument has been evidently partly destroyed, and no colours now remain on the shields still on it. In 1637 he was made Dean of St. Burian in Cornwall, but was deposed on the eve of the Civil War, from which he was a great sufferer. He went into exile with Charles II., whose chaplain he was for fifteen years; on whose return he was made Dean of Wells, and afterwards Bishop (19 June 1670, being then aged 77), which office he held until his death, 21 Nov. 1672. There was formerly a mural monument to the memory of the Bishop's widow, with her arms, near that of her husband, but it has been removed into the cloisters.

DE MIDDLETON OR MILTON. Between the memorials of Bishop Berkeley and Bishop Creyghton, under the north window, is the recumbent effigy of John de Middleton or Milton, Chancellor in 1337, from whom this is sometimes called Milton Chapel. It is without inscription.

Robert Creyghton, A.M.
Died 18 Dec. 1732, aged 60.
(Floorslab.)

He was the second son of John, first Lord Poulett of Hinton St. George, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Christopher Ken of Ken Court, Somerset, Esq., and married Catherine, daughter of Dr. Robert Creyghton, Bishop of Bath and Wells. Both he and his wife are named in Bishop Creyghton's will (dated 1672), who bequeaths to his daughter Katherine Poulett a ring given to him by the Queen of Sweden. Katherine Poulett is also mentioned in the will of her mother Frances Creyghton. The will of Francis Poulett, in which he is styled "of Wells, Esq.," dated 6 Sept. 1679, and proved 11 Feb. 1687 (P.P.C., 21 Exton), leaves all he has to his wife Catherine Poulett. Administration to the effects of Catherine Poulett, late of the Liberty of St. Andrew, Wells, widow, was granted to her brother Robert Creyghton, D.D., on 9 Nov. 1694. Among the parish papers of St. Cuthbert's, Wells, are two with the seal and signature of the above Francis Poulett as a Justice of the Peace, one dated 1687. One has these arms on the seal, (Sa.), three swords in pile points in base (arg., hilts and pomels or), in chief a mullet for difference. Crest, An arm emb. in armour, the hand grasping a sword, all ppr. Supporters, On the dexter a wild man wreathed about the middle and temples with oak-leaves, on the sinister a woman also wreathed with oak, all ppr. Motto, Gardez le foy. The supporters being those of his father Lord Poulett, the mullet should have been a crescent, he being the second son. The other seal is more correct, giving the same arms and crest, only with a crescent instead of a mullet for his difference, and omitting the supporters, to which he was not entitled. The document bears date 1686.

Cathedral Register.

1680 Mar. 30 M^{rs} Sarah Newton, bur.

On the floor of this chapel, beside the memorial stone above, are a number of encaustic tiles. Some of them are on the edge of the raised part where the altar originally stood, the rest on floor near the Berkeley tomb. The following are the only armorial shields, the same coats being repeated several times. The other tiles are only ornamental devices. In all cases the colours of the tiles are not to be considered.

The coats are: 1, Three chevrons, doubtless De Clare (Or, three chevs. gu.). In the Cathedral MSS. two Canons of this name are mentioned, Canon Roger de Clare in 1284, and Canon H. de Clare in 1292.

2, Arg., a lion ramp. (gu.), crowned (or), within a bord. (sa.) bezantée. This is the coat of Richard Plantagenet, second son of King John, created Earl of Cornwall, crowned King of the Romans 27 May 1257, and died in 1271. He married first Isabel, third daughter of William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke, and widow of Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester. His son Edmund, Earl of Cornwall, married Margaret, daughter of Richard de Clare, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford, from whom he was divorced 22 Edward I. On the tile the lion is incorrectly turned to the sinister.

3, Checky (or and az.), Warren. In one case this coat has a castle of three towers over it, in the other the space on each side of the lower part of the shield is filled by a like castle. The family of St. Barbe of South Brent (now Brent Knole), not very far off, bore, Chequy arg. and sa.; and John St. Barbe was Sheriff of Somerset and Dorset in 1460, but that date is much too late for the tiles, nor does there appear any reason to assign the tile to that family. The same arms accompanied by the castle is found at Cleeve Abbey. This coat was used by the descendants of Hamelin Plantagenet (natural son of Geoffry Plantagenet, Earl of Anjou, consequently half-brother to King Henry II.) by his marriage with Isabel, daughter and heir of William de Warren, Earl Warren and Surrey. His son William, Earl Warren and Surrey, married first Maud, daughter of the Earl of Arundell, and secondly Maud, daughter of William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke, by whom he had a daughter Isabel, married to Hugh, Earl of Arundell, and a son John, who succeeded him as fourth Earl, and married Alice, daughter of Hugh le Brun, Comte de la Marche, half-sister by her mother to King Henry III., and to Richard, Earl of Cornwall, above.

4, (Gu.) three lions pass.-gard. in pale (or), the arms of King Henry III.

5, Six fleurs-de-lys. Several families bore these arms, with the colours different, but none of them can be identified as connected with Wells at the date of the tiles, viz., Mortymer, Darley, Ireland, Payferer or Peyfere, and Redesham.

6, A chev. betw. three eagles displ., and on a chief a rose betw. two lozenges. Anthony à Wood mentions this coat as cut in the stone roof of a seat in Bath Abbey, and says it was made, he conceives, by Prior William Byrd. No ordinary of arms gives a coat like this for Byrd. Robert Fayery, gent., Portcullis Pursuivant of Arms, at the commencement of Edward VI.'s reign bore, Per pale or and az., a chev. betw. three eagles displ., all counterchanged, on a chief gu. as many lozenges erm. The coat is still in the roof of Bath Abbey, over the chancel on south side and in the north aisle, east of the organ, thus painted, Sa., a chev. arg. betw. three eagles displ. or, on a chief of the last a rose inter two lozenges gu., and commemorates some benefactor to the fabric of both churches whose identity remains to be discovered. Unless, as seems most probable, it is the coat of Robert Fayremay, one of the executors of the will of Dean Husee, who was living in 1307. The tile here and stone shield at Bath both represent the same person.

7, A cross, the ends terminating in annulets, within each a cross. This cannot be identified as any coat, unless it was the coat of Bishop William de Marchia, and is a modification of the coat, Arg., a cross fourchée gu., assigned in a roll of arms circa 1240-5 to De la Marche. This shield also occurs cut in stone in the roof of Bath Abbey Church.

8, A sword in bend dexter interlaced with two keys addorsed in bend sinister, Bath Abbey.

9, Three bars and a canton. (Arg., three bars and a canton sa., Braunche.) A Sir Nicholas Braunch was party with the Dean and Chapter and Sir John de Acton of the one part to an indenture relating to land at Stathmore, 4 Edward II. (1304). Vide Cath. MSS. These dates point to the commencement of the fourteenth century as the period at which the tiles were made.

These are the only armorial tiles; some are repeated, and there are others with only ornamental designs. Several have a tower and also a double-headed eagle displayed without being on a shield, which were the arms of Eleanor of Castile, first wife of King Edward I., and to those of Anne of Austria, wife of King Richard II. These remains shew that there formerly existed a much greater quantity of this beautiful paving, and we lament the loss of a great deal of historic interest, commemorating benefactors and the ramifications of family connections and influence. Among these we may venture to surmise were the arms of the Berkeleys, long a powerful family in Gloucestershire and Somerset, and the munificent founders of the Abbey of St. Augustine at Bristol, in whose church many of them lie buried, and, as we shall see by the pedigree, closely connected with the families whose arms are on the titles, and with Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, whose arms are in a window of the South Transept, above the monument of the Viscountess de Lisle, whose husband was also descended from them, which connection is more clearly shewn by the accompanying tabular pedigree.

(Floorslab.)

The will of this Nathaniel Sellick, as Nathaniel Sellick, Clerk, of Clifton Campville, co. Stafford, dated 2 Dec. 1690, was proved 4 Jan. 1700 by Susanna Sellick, relict of testator. He desires to be buried at Clifton Campville. Names John Sellick, younger son of John Sellick, D.D.

The Rev. Nathaniel Sellick was instituted to the Vicarage of Buckland Newton, Dorset, 1 March 1679, which he resigned in 1690. He married first Anne, daughter of the Rev. William Peirs, Archdeacon of Taunton, and relict of Dr. Henry Deane, Chancellor of Bath and Wells. She died in May 1680, and is buried with a monument at Buckland Newton. The will of Dr. Sellick's sister Joane was proved at Wells, and is a long and interesting one, on account of the number of relations mentioned in it. The following is an abstract of it:

Dated 5 June 1681. Joane Sellock of Wells, spinster. To be buried in the Cathedral Church of St Andrew, Wells. For the funeral £20. Cousin John Sellock, "eldest son of my brother Dr John Sellock," £10, and to his wife, my cousin, Elizabeth Sellock, 21s. Cousin Nathaniel Sellock, youngest son of the said Dr John Sellock, £10, and to his wife, my cousin, Susanna Sellock, 21s. and "my silk mantle." John Sellock his son, "my cozin," £7 and a gold ring "which I had had at the funeral of his grandfather Dr Sellock," and to his daughter, "my cozin," Susanna Sellock, £7 and my best sheet. Cousin Theophila Wyne £15, best black mantle, and a silver spoon, and to her son, "my cozin," John Wyne, £7 and a gold ring "I had at his father's funeral." Cousin Robert Aish and his wife Joane Aish. The seven children of the said Robert and Joane Aish, viz., Robert, John, Edmund, William, Abraham, Ann, and Theophila Aish. Cousin John Irish, son of my sister Hurdaker, and his wife Elizabeth Irish. Grizell Irish, daughter of the said John and Elizabeth Irish, to have mourning clothes, etc., "I had at the funeral of my niece Grizell Irish." Cousin Joane Irish, "widow of my cousin Edmund Irish," and her son Edmund Irish, and her daughter Theophila Irish. Cousin Honor Sellock and her daughter Mary Sellock. Cousin John Sellock, son of "my cozin Robert Sellock, deceased," if he ever arrive in England and give my executors a discharge for the amount, if not to be divided between the children of my cozins Nathaniel Sellock, Robert Aish, Thomas Wyne, John Sellock, Honor Sellock, and Joane Irish, being in all 14 in number. To Francis Carver, Grase Whately, and John Dun 10s. each. The poor of St Andrew, Wells, the poor of Nether Stowey. Widow Laws. Widow Wats and her daughter Elizabeth Wats. Residue to cousin John Irish, "son of my sister Hordaker," who is to be executor.

Proved 3 Sept. 1692. This is sealed with these arms, A cross between four doves (or pea-hens). Crest, A demi-lion. (Quarterly or and az., a cross quarterly erms. and of the first betw. four pea-hens counterchanged. Crest, A demi-lion per pale or and az. Grindall.

The will of John Sellock of Stanton Drew, gent., dated 24 Feb. 1715, refers to the marriage settlement between self and his now dear wife Penelope, by which her life was put on Otterford Farm, and the rectory or parsonage impropriate of Stanton Drew. Nephew John Wyne, nephew John Sellock, Thomas Rosewell, or Rousewell, of North Curry, Yeoman, trustees. Proved 14 Jan. 1719 by relict Penelope Sellock at Wells. Inventory £528 19s. Sealed with these arms, A lion ramp. debruised by a bendlet. Crest, From a crest coronet a cock's head. It is difficult without the colours or further information to identify whose arms these are, probably Poole or Churchill. She was a dau. of Sir John Newton of Barres Court, second Bart., by his wife Mary, dau. of Sir Gervase Eyre, Knt.

A Licence was granted 12 March 1713 for Henry Sellick, gent., Junior, of West Monkton, to marry Mary Bere, spinster; John Bere, gent., being bondsman.

Cathedral Register.

1679 Mar. 9 Mr Timothy Revett, bur.

This Timothy was a younger son of Michael Revett of Lynne, co. Norfolk. He married Katherine, daughter of Francis James, D.C.L., of Barrow Court, one of the Masters in Chancery, a Judge of the Court of Audience and Archbishop's Court, and Chancellor of the Diocese of Bath and Wells, by Blanche, daughter of Francis Gunter of London and his wife Jane, daughter of Edward Lloyd of Lloyenmayne, and relict of Edward Southworth, Esq. This Francis James in his will, dated 27 May 1613, names his daughter Katherine, wife of Timothy Revett, D.D.; and the will of Jane Gunter of Wells, widow, dated 24 Feb. 1612, names her daughter Blanche, wife of Francis James of Wells, Esq., and directs that she is to be buried in the Cathedral, but no memorial of her remains. Dr. Timothy Revett's will, dated 17 March 1637, was proved 30 June 1638. It leaves bequests to the poor of Cheddar, Compton Martin, Knowle, etc. Names his friend Tristram Towse of Wells. His cousin Mr. William Bull (who married the daughter of Henry Southworth). His brother Mr. Thomas Coward. His sister Philippa James. Gives his books to the Cathedral library. He had two sons Timothy and Arthur. The will of Timothy Revett, son of the Archdeacon of Wells, gent., dated 22 Dec. 1679, and proved 20 May 1680 by Henry Strode of Ham, desires that he be buried by his father in the Cathedral. Names Dr. William Peirse, Archdeacon of Taunton and Vicar of Kingsbury Episcopi, and his son William, testator's cousin. Charles Mattocke and his wife Jane, cousin of testator, and her sister Mary Coward. Edward Strode of Downside. Cousin Thomas Peirse, son of Dr. Peirse. Children of cousin Jane Mattocke. God-daughter Mrs. Mercy Strode. The brother, Mr. Thomas Coward, named in Dr. Revett's will, had married Mary, daughter of Francis James and sister of Dr. Revett's wife; she proved her husband's will 27 April 1621, and remarried Mr. Richard Phillips. The will of her son by her first husband Thomas Coward of Wells, gent., is given below. Jane, wife of Charles Mattocke, named in the will of Timothy Revett, was a daughter of his uncle Thomas Coward, who had married first Thomas Roberts of Wells, by whom she had a son Thomas Roberts of Wells, gent., who died 15 April 1688, aged 36. She married secondly Charles Mattocke of Wells, gent., a Notary Public, by whom she had Thomas, Mary, and Katherine Mattocke; this Charles Mattocke's will, dated 16 September 1685 and proved 16 October 1686, is sealed with these arms :—A chev. betw. three fleurs-de-lis; imp. On a chev. three martlets, and on a chief a cannon, for Coward; but really the coat of Leigh, whose heiress married Coward.

1701 Aug. 12 Edward Coward, gent.
1705 April 12 William Coward, Sergeant at Law and Recorder of this City, from Chamberlain Street.
1724 April 28 Madam Coward, widow, brought from London.

In St. Cuthbert's Church a floorslab is inscribed to the memory of George Coward, gent., who died 24 Aug. 1677. Another is for Thomas Coward, gent., who died 18 Jan. 1640. Round the edge of the latter is cut "John Whittington, gent.;" the other side with the remainder of the inscription is covered. There are also two mural tablets, the remains of what were handsome mural monuments, one inscribed for Bridget, wife of William Coward, Esq., Recorder of Wells, and only daughter of Thomas Hall of Bradford in Wiltshire, and Lady Catherine his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Seymour of Bury Pomery, co. Devon, Bart. ; she died 22 March 1682, aged 43. Among some other fragments of stonework is a shield in a boldly cut bordure with a cherubin's head at the top, originally coloured and gilt, of which but little remains, having these arms, Or, two bars sa. charged with three roses of the first, two and one, Coward; imp. Sa., three battle-axes erect arg., garnished or, Hall.

The other tablet has a Latin inscription commemorating William Coward, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Recorder and M.P. for Wells, who died 8 April 1705, the monument being erected by his son William Coward. Another shield, much like the former in style, has these arms, Per pale of three: 1, Coward, as before; 2, Hall, as before; 3, Paly of six arg. and az., a bend gu.

The above William Coward, Esq., married secondly Lady Philippa Annesley, daughter of Arthur, Earl of Annesley, and relict of Charles, third Lord Mohun; her burial is recorded in 1724.

Among the parish papers of St. Cuthbert, signed and sealed by Justices of the Peace, we find Thomas Coward, jun., J.P., on 4 April 1758 using this coat, (Arg.), two bars (vert) betw. nine martlets (gu.); Crest, A boar's head erased; being those of his mother Grace, daughter and coheir of Thomas Moore of Hawkechurch, co. Dorset, and Spargrove, co. Somerset. In 1703 (Sept. 25) William Coward seals with his proper coat and crest, viz., two bars charged with three roses. Crest, A demi-greyhound (sa.), betw. the paws a stag's head caboshed (arg., attired or).

Will of T. Roberts.

Thomas Roberts of Wells, gent., named in the will of Francis Coward above as husband of his dau. Jane, made his will 1 April 1688, which was proved 23 June 1688 by Jane his widow, who was to have with other lands the manors of Shepton Mallet and Wells. He names his brothers Phineas Bowles, Capt. Charles Collier, and Mr. William Sandes. His sister's son Thomas Harman; brother Rev. Nathaniel Roberts; and cousin Nicholas Sanford.

Will of T. Coward.

Thomas Coward of Wells, Somerset, gent. Will dated 4 June 1662. Being sick makes his will, and desires to be buried in the Lady Chapel in the Cathedral Church of Wells, near his father and mother as conveniently can be done. To the poor of the old almhouse 40^{s}; aunt Blower a ring; brother Francis Coward's wife and children; to brother Francis Coward all his lands except his wife's jointure, he paying to M^{rs} Hicks £500; to cousin Timothy Revell £150; to brother Francis Coward two rings, one with Dr. Ryvett's arms on one side and a skull and crossbones on the other; brother Peirce and "my sister his wife;" uncle William James; uncle Arthur Phillipps; cousin Thomas Heath; brother Samuel Heath. Proved at Wells 4 Feb. 1662. Seal, (Arg.), on a chev. gu. three martlets or, a chief of the second charged with a cannon dismounted of the third. This is really the coat of Leigh, whose heiress married Coward. (See "Visitation of Somerset, 1623," Harl. Soc., vol. xi., p. 30.)

Will of F. Coward.

Francis Coward of Wells. Will dated 6 May 1665; proved 24 March 1655. To be bur. in the Lady Chapel of the Cathedral Church of Wells. Brother-in-law D^{r} William Piers; kinsman M^{r} Timothy Revett; wife Elizabeth; daughters Jane and Mary, both under twenty-four; Catherine widow of deceased brother Thomas Coward; son Thomas Coward; dau. Jane w. of Thomas Roberts of Wells; and Mary w. of William Sands. (Vide "Somerset Wills" by Rev. F. Brown.)

In the Church of St. Lawrence, Winchester, were recently the remains of a handsome mural monument for Thomas Coward, who married Grace, daughter and coheir of Thomas Moore of Hawkchurch, Dorset, and Spargrove, Somerset; among the debris of this monument and others in the tower are the following shields: the coat of Leigh or Coward, as appended to the will of Thomas Coward above cited; also, Arg., a cross eng. betw. twelve billets gu., Heath; also, Gu., a lion ramp. per fess indent erm. and erminois, Stokes; and, Az., a chev. betw. three pears pendant or, Orchard. The coat of Leigh seems to have been occasionally used by Coward in place of their proper coat, namely, Or, on two bars sa. three roses, two and one, of the first. This last is cut on one of the battlements of Ditcheat Church with the date 1667, and these initials, C. C., for Christopher Coward of Ditcheat.

Unfortunately there are no old monuments at West Pennard, with John Coward of which place the Visitation pedigree commences, the nearest approach being a floorslab on which can just be traced a shield with helmet and mantling, but the charges on the shield and the inscription are quite gone.

The following relate to the Cowards at Dicheat:—

Will of H. Coward.

Henry Coward of Ditcheat, husbandman. Will dated 26 September 1664; proved 20 April 1665. Names son Thomas; son Henry and his son John; dau. Edith; dau. In the Chancel Aisle of St. Cuthbert is a floorslab for Elizabeth wife of Arthur Mattocke, gent., dau. and heir-at-law of Charles Curtis of East Harptree, gent.; she died 26 March 1708, aged 22. Thomas Roberts of this city, gent., who died 15 April 1688, aged 36. Arthur Mattocke, died 12 March 1713, aged 39; and George Mattocke, gent., who died 5 Oct. 1736, aged 53. Above the inscription are these Arms, ... a chev. quarterly per chev. . . . . betw. three fleurs-de-lis . . . . ; imp. (Arg.), three bulls' heads caboshed (sa.). Crest, A bear salient. The impalement is incorrect; there should be a chevron between the bulls' heads for the coat of Curtis; as it stands it is really the coat of Walrond.

The following abstracts of Wills in the Wells Registry throw some further light on the pedigree and its connection with the Coward Family :—

Will of C. Mattocke.

Charles Mattocke of Wells, gent. Will dated 16 Sep. 1685; proved at Wells 16 Oct. 1686. Names son Thomas Mattocke, daughters Mary and Katherine Mattocke; lands in Sutton, Mallet, Chilton, and Wincanton; William Westley of Wells, gent.; Mr. Charles Thirlby, and Mr. Arthur Mattocke, both deceased. Seal, A chev. betw. three fleurs-de-lis; imp. A chev. charged with three martlets, and on a chief a cannon dismounted, for Coward; really the coat of Ley or Leigh. Crest, A bear salient. Burke gives for Matticke or Matoke of Herefordshire and Yorkshire, Az., a chev. quarterly or and arg. betw. three fleurs-de-lis of the second. Crest, A bear salient per bend arg. and sa. Papworth makes the chev. quarterly per chev., thus agreeing with the stone in St. Cuthbert.

WILL OF G. MATTOCKE.

George Mattocke of Wells, gent. Will dated 17 Jan. 1688; proved at Wells 13 July 1689. Names lands in Banwell, and leaves all to his wife Mrs. Sophia Mattocke. Seal, On a bend three griffins' heads erased. Crest, A griffin's head as in the arms. (Arg., on a bend sa. three griffins' heads erased of the first, White.)

ADMINISTRATION: A. MATTOCK.

Arthur Mattock of Wells, bachelor, deceased. Administration granted 3 Aug. 1685 to Richard Cupper, a creditor, Thomas and George Mattock, brothers of the deceased, renouncing.

On the sides of the stairs leading from this aisle to the pulpit in the choir are carved two shields, one charged with the arms of Jenkyns, the other with those of Grove, as already blazoned.

ADMINISTRATION: G. CLYNTON.

Administration 16 Oct. 1650 of the effects of Guy Clinton of Alford granted to his son Guy Clinton. Administration 18 Jan. 1678-9 of the effects of Guy Clynton of Wells, deceased, to his son Guy Clynton, Ann Clynton the relict having renounced.

WILL OF A. CLINTON.

The will of Ann Clinton of Wells, widow, dated 10 Oct. 1702; proved at Wells 27 Nov. 1712. To be buried at St. Cuthbert's; goddau. Jane Prickman a guinea; goddau. Eliz. Norton dau. of William Norton; to every poor housekeeper living in New Street from the sign of the Globe to the upper end of the street, one shilling; lands and tenements, etc., in New Street to Elizabeth wife of John Paine of Wells; said daughter-in-law Elizabeth Pain to be executrix. Seal, (Or), two bars az. betw. three crescents sa., inter the bars three roses of the second, Merrifield. A family of Merrifield had long been resident in Wells. The "Globe" Inn has disappeared from New Street, nor are there now many "poor housekeepers" in the street in the sense implied by Ann Clinton's will.

WILL OF R. STACIE.

The will of Ann Clinton's father Richard Stacie; proved at Wells 19 Aug. 1685; in it he calls himself aged but of good health. Names house and gardens in New Street purchased from George Bisse, Esq., to his dau. Ann Clinton and her heirs; Elizabeth Paine dau. of John Payne; to the poor of St. Cuthbert forty shillings; Mr Philip Hodges, gent., and Mr Guydo Clinton, notary public, overseers.

The following abstract of a will explains the appearance of the seal with the arms of Merefield:—

WILL OF C. MEREFIELD.

Christable Merefield of Wells, spinster. Will dated 20 Aug. 1664; proved at Wells 22 March 1664. Names brother William Merefield, niece Martha Gold; nephew Gold; nephew Rowland; brother Mr Richard Stacy; nephew Thomas White, to have her lands in Somerset and be executor.

CRYPT.

This occupies the space beneath the Chapter House, and contains a collection of fragments of architectural details, five stone coffins, three memorial slabs with floriated crosses, the effigy of one of the architects of the Cathedral with a plummet in his hand, and a stone with the following portion of an inscription, viz. :—

Ætatis suæ 57
Hic etiam jacet
Johannes filius
Eldredgii aris dictæ
dnæ natii obiit 3°
Jan. 1696
Ætat 1mo.

There is also a hatchment for Dean Jenkyns, whose monument has been already mentioned ; it has the dexter side black. The arms are, JENKINS, Az., on a saltire eng. or, five crosses patée fitchee sa. ; imp. Erm., on a chev. gu. three escallop shells or, Grove ; on an escutcheon of pretence, Grove repeated. For Dean Jenkyns see p. 75.

WILL OF H. CLARKE.

Henry Clarke of Wells, Esq. Will dated at Wookey, 3 September 6 Eliz., A.D. 1564. To be buried in St. Cuthbert's, near dau. Elizabeth. To the church of St. Cuthbert 20s ; to the fabric of the Cathedral Church of St. Andrew 10s ; for the repair of the Chancel of the Parish Church of Locking 20s ; to the Church Works of the Parish Church of Wookey 6s 8d ; to the Church Works of Kingston Seymour 3s 4d ; wife Elizabeth £100 and plate ; son William "my best greate salte of silver gilt, having upon the reverse my father and mother's arms graven, a ring of gold with my seal of arms," at 24 years of age; if he die before, to s. Thomas ; if he d. s.p., to s. Harry ; if he d. s.p., remainder to "my daughters then living ;" cousin Sir Rowland Clarke ; friend Mr William Horman, scrivener, of Wells ; cousin John Cawood (? Coward) ; friend William Watson.

Codicil dated 7 May 1565. Master William Bowerman, Sub-Dean of Wells. Sir John Turner, Priest. Wife Elizabeth, mansion house in Wells ; Manors of Locking and Kingston to son William ; remainder to son Thomas ; remainder to son Harry ; remainder to Elizabeth Hill, daughter of my sister Alice, dec. ; remainder to Sir Rowland Clarke ; remainder to testator's sister Anne Claxton ; remainder over to right heirs ; Manor of Blackford, lands and mansion house at Wookey, lands at St. Decumens ; dau. Joane ; dau. Anthonye (sic) ; dau. Anne ; dau. Mary ; dau. Elizabeth, at 18 years of age ; father Thomas Clarke, late deceased. Proved 11 April 1565, at Wells (book 14, fol. 107). The original does not exist, consequently there is no seal.

In the Church of Wookey is an altar-tomb for the father of the above Henry ; on the top round the edge is this inscription, "Here lyth the bodye of Thomas Clarke Esquyer and Anthony his wyfe whiche Tho. was departid to Gode the 2 day of Marche 1555, and also Anthony departid the . . day . . . . whose soules God p'do amn." At the west end of the tomb are these arms, (Or), two bars (gu.), and in chief three escallops (az.), Clarke ; imp. Quarterly—1 and 4, (Arg.), three birdbolts paleways in fess (gu.), Bolton ; 2 and 3, (Arg.), a fess betw. in chief two mullets and in base a crescent (gu.), Elder. This last coat is rather doubtful, it represents an early match of the old Yorkshire family of Bolton. It is much to be wished some light could be obtained regarding this match of Clarke. In St. Cuthbert's Church are the remains of a monument to one of this family, consisting of a recumbent effigy in armour, a large shield, Quarterly—1 and 4, Clarke, as above ; 2 and 3, Three birdbolts paleways in fess, as above. Crest, A demi-eagle wings addorsed. Two smaller shields are charged, the one with this quartered coat, the other with Clarke alone. The following inscription is on a panel, "Clara Chara Clarcko A° Dni 1587," a trefoil being placed between each word. The Wills at Wells give us no further information immediately connected with this family.

Will of T. Clarke.

Will of Thomas Clarke of Shapwick, husbandman, dated 2 April 1550. Names sons John, William, and Thomas ; daughters Joan and Edith ; wife Joan. Proved at Wells 6 July 1551.

Will of J. Clarke.

Will of John Clarke of Shapwick, dated 27 March 1582. Names sons William and Thomas ; daughters Agnes and Joan ; wife Margaret. Proved at Wells 27 May 1582.

Will of T. Clarke.

The Will nuncupative of Thomas Clarke of Shapwick, husbandman, deceased, dated 22 November 1610. Names wife and children without their names. Wife Mary Clarke ; son William, aged two years ; William Clarke, brother of deceased. Proved 27 February 1610-11. William Clarke, Notary Public of Wells, is a witness, and is probably the person named in the following entry from St. Cuthbert's Register, "1609, February 2, M^rs^ Clarke wife of M^r^ Clarke, the Proctter, buried."

Will of J. Bolton.

About this period there was a family of the name of Bolton existing in the county, as appears by the Will of John Bolton, dated 16 August 1546, proved at Taunton 15 September 1546. In it he desires to be buried in the Church of St. James's, Taunton ; leaves bequests to the Altars of our Lady St. Katherine and Holy Cross in that Church, and to the Church of St. Andrew at Wells. Names his mother Mow^tt^ Bolton ; brother John Bolton ; sister Alice Bolton ; dau. Isabell Bolton ; wife Johan, and the child she goeth with ; Gostly father John Moreys. Witness, Sir John Burgon, curate. Although this throws no direct light on the question, it is an indication as to the family of Tho. Clarke's wife.

Will of W. Clarke.

William Clarke of Wookey, yeoman, will dated 14 June 1709 ; proved at Wells 19 Nov. 1709. Names s. William Clarke ; goods at Lovington ; two grandchildren William and Christiana Boulting ; s. Richard Clarke ; lands in the Manor of Northload ; dau. Susanna. Seal, W. C.

Will of R. Clarke.

Richard Clarke of Wookey, miller. Names house and fifteen acres of land more or less at Priddy; three sons Thomas Clarke, Richard Clarke, and John Clarke; their uncle John Stott; their grandfather Thomas Stott, deceased; dau. Betty Clerke; Mary Marchant dau. of the late Rose Marchant of Wookey, deceased; house and mill at Wookey. Witnesses, John Stott and John Gutch. Seal, (Gu.), on a fess betw. three boars' heads (arg.) a lion pass. (sa.). Crest, A boar's head as in the arms, apparently used by John Gutch.

Among the papers of St. Cuthbert Parish is one dated 23 June 1708, signed by Edward Clarke as a J.P., the arms on the seal being, Two bars and in chief three escallop shells.

WINDOWS IN THE NORTH AISLE OF CHOIR.

In the second window from the east end of this aisle are three shields, viz. :—

1, Or, two bars az., in chief three escallop shells gules, over the shield a bishop's mitre, Bishop John Clark. This shield appears to be of glass, contemporary with Bishop Clark. These arms are on the tomb of Thomas Clark 1555 at Wookey, and on a monument in St. Cuthbert's dated 1587. The same coat is ascribed to Clark of Shipley (sic, probably Shipham near Winscombe, which belonged to the Bishops of Bath and Wells) by Burke, etc., who also give for the Bishop the same coat, adding a horse's head, as mentioned more fully in the account of the shields in the Common Hall of the Vicars.

2, Az., a saltire or. The glass of the saltire looks very old, but the field is undoubtedly new glass. Most likely the shield contained the correct arms of the See, as still in the opposite aisle, but being broken this was a cheap way of repairing it.

3, Per fess or and arg., in chief a demi-rose gu. conjoined to a demi-sun in base or, from the top of the rose a demi imperial eagle sans wings sa. Burke gives as granted 14 July 1514 to William Knight, Prothonotary of the Apostolical See, and Ambassador from King Henry VIII. to Maximilian, and afterwards Bishop of Bath and Wells, this coat, Per fess or and gu., an eagle with two heads displayed sa., having on its breast a demi-rose and a demi-sun conjoined into one counterchanged of the field. This blazon is not very clear, the coat is evidently that in the window, only that the red of the glass has faded, a fact which will be noticed more fully in the next window. The seal of Bishop Knight and the pulpit in the nave which was built for his monument, and beneath which he lies, have the same arms as in the window, no colours being shewn.

In the next window, the third from the east end of this aisle, are three more shields :—

1, Arg., gutté d'or, on a chief or an annulet gu. betw. two leopards' faces az. langued of the first. The annulet looks more like a torteaux with a hole in the middle. This coat was originally, no doubt, Gu., gutté d'or, on a chief of the last a torteaux charged with a leopard's face of the second betw. two other leopards' faces az. This coat is not given by Papworth, and it very probably belongs to Dean

Woleman, though the only thing that connects him with it is the inscription at the foot of the window. Among fragments in one of the other windows are two torteaux charged with a leopard's face gold, no doubt belonging to two examples of this shield.

2, Quarterly France and England, within the garter, the garter has been patched, and there are remains of supporters; on the sinister is part of a dragon or, winged vert; the arms of Henry VIII. The dragon should be gules, and on the dexter side. It is worthy of note here, as the royal arms are so well known and indisputable, that the field is quite clear glass, the red in both quarters having completely faded away. This is also the case in the next shield, in both the coats of Knight the red having completely gone. An example of the Courtenay arms at Sheviock in Cornwall has the three torteaux quite colourless, while the yellow and blue remain.

It would appear that old glass-workers sometimes used a colour that was not permanent, or used a thin coating of ruby glass, which was cut away when small charges had to be shewn; such coating in some cases becoming detached by the action of air and weather in course of time, left clear glass where red ought to be; and this must always be borne in mind when viewing a shield which has clear glass where colour should be, even if there are traces of diapering over the glass.

3, Knight as in the previous window.

At the foot of the window is this inscription evidently not perfect:—

Ricarolus Woleman hugus ecclesie . . . . deo. opt. . . mar. . . 1537.

Richard Woleman, LL.D., appointed Dean of Wells in 1529, and died 1537, being buried in the cloister of St. Stephen's Chapel, Westminster.

KEN. The fourth window from the East is modern, put up in memory of Bishop Ken, chiefly by the exertions of Dean Plumptre, the learned author of an exhaustive life of that prelate. It contains, with Scripture scenes, the full length portraiture of the Bishop; beneath him this coat, viz., Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly counterchanged arg. and or, cantoned with, on the dexter two keys addorsed the bows interlaced, on the sinister a sword erect, all of the second; imp. Erm., three crescents gu. This being no doubt intended for the See imp. Ken; but in the coat for the See the pastoral staff is omitted, and the saltire made incorrectly of two metals instead of plain gold. Round the figure this legend, "Pastor bonus animam pro ovibus," and at the foot of the window, "In piam memoriam viri Sanctissimi delectissimi Thomæ Ken, S.T.P., olim Bathon et Wellen episcopi, N. 1637, ob. 1711."

THE CHOIR.

JENKYNS. The stone Pulpit given by Dean Jenkyns has this inscription running round the upper part, "Deo dedicaverunt Ricardus Jenkyns, S.T.P., Decanus Wellensis et Veritas uxor ejus, A.S., MDCCCLIII." On the side steps of the pulpit, but in the North Aisle, are two shields, one with the arms of Jenkyns, the other Grove, as already described.

On the floor near the Pulpit is a brass with this inscription :—

Fenestram supra appositam
In memoriam
BRYMER. Gulielmi Thomæ Parr Brymer, A.M. hugus ecclesiæ Canon : et Archid : Bathon :
laboribus ecclesiasticus
Dum episcopi senio gravati vicem generet summa omniam laude absolutus complures tam laici quam clerici
adornandum curauerunt,
A.S., MDCCCL.

Jocelynus de Welles epˢ 1242.
(Floorslab.)

This is all there is of heraldry or memorial inscription in the Choir.

CHAPEL.

Leading from N. Aisle to the Chapter House.

A large canopied tomb with recumbent effigy, which has recently been re-painted and gilt, bears these arms and inscription :

MOTTO.—Tranquilla per æquora.

Arms granted by Sir WILLIAM DETHICK, Garter King of Arms, 10 April 35 Eliz., 1593.

In the Wells Probate Registry is the will of John Still of Compton Martin, husbandman, dated 3 Oct. 30 Queen Eliz., and proved 5 Sept. 1590 (book 23, fol. 4). Parts have quite disappeared, but we can trace, "My .... Alice," "my wife Joane Still," "my son John Still." Names debts to .... Maynard, Ambrose Millard, and Edward Still. But his relationship, if any, does not appear.

The above is from a large monument of black and white marble, with a recumbent effigy of the Bishop's daughter, who caused the monument to be erected. It was formerly on the south side of the Choir. The Bishop was killed with his wife by the fall of a stack of chimneys on the night of the great storm, 26 and 27 Nov. 1703.

Arms : Sable, a saltire emb. counterembattled arg.

Cathedral Register.

1703 Dec. 14 Richard, Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, and his Lady were buried.

CORNISH. A canopied altar-tomb commemorates Thomas Cornish, Canon, Chancellor, Succentor and Precentor of the Cathedral, Rector of Lambrook, Vicar of St. Cuthbert and of Wedmore, Suffragan for Bishop Fox of Bath and Wells, and for Bishop Hugh Oldham of Exeter. He was educated at Oxford, and held the titular bishopric of Tenos or Tine. There remains against the wall under the canopy the matrix of a brass, but only part of the fillet round the edge of the tomb, which carried the name and date, actually exists, and only a small part of that, inscribed with the following: "Cujus anime .... men .... Tinensis Ep'us tertio die mensis Julii Anno D'mº MCCCCCXIV."

The copy of the inscription printed with the account of the monument for the use of visitors gives the inscription as, "Cujus animæ propietur Deus supradictus D'n's Thomas Tinensis Ep'us tertio die mensis July An. Dom. 1513." This, it will be seen, varies in several points from what actually exists.

On the front of the tomb are three shields. On the first a text T with a wheatsheaf; on the third the letter C with another wheatsheaf, the initials of Thomas Cornish, the sheaves of corn, of course, alluding to his name. On the centre shield is this coat: On a chev. betw. three birds' heads erased a mitre. No colours are given on the monument, and this coat is not given by Burke or Papworth for this name, so that it is a great pity it does not exist in one of the windows. It may have been the arms of his mother's family, if she were an heiress, which he adopted, adding the mitre from his episcopal office. The birds' heads are hardly likely to have been Cornish choughs, as a canting coat or a garb would also have been introduced, and a Cornish chough taken the place of one of the garbs accompanying the initials. However this may have been, the coat is certainly intended as his own, but does not appear to have been used by any others of the same name. At the west end is another shield charged with the arms of the Dean and Chapter, the saltire between the keys on the dexter and the sword on the sinister, as in the window on the south of the Choir. The saltire is here, as elsewhere in the earlier examples, carved quite plain without any partition lines.

We will now pass out of the door up the steps to the Chapter House. In the windows are three shields, namely:—

I. Quarterly: 1 and 4, France (modern); 2 and 3, England. The royal arms, probably for Edward IV.

II. The same with a label erm. Probably for Edward, Prince of Wales, eldest son of Henry VI., or the eldest son of Edward IV. The grandmother of Edward IV. was a Mortimer.

These shields could not have been before Henry V., as he was the first to use the three fleurs-de-lis instead of semée of fleurs-de-lis in the arms of France.

III. Barry of six or and az., an inescutcheon arg., on a chief of the first three palets betw. two gyronnes of the second, Mortimer, Earl of March. In the glass, the inescutcheon is so large, the rest appears as a bordure. In one of the windows is an estoil within the horns of a crescent, per pale az. and arg, placed within a collar of SS. The estoil within a crescent was a badge of Richard I. It was also a badge of the house of Lancaster, and used with some variations by their adherents.

The royal arms of James I. are painted over the Bishop's throne. Beneath this were painted on the wall two shields, all that can now be made out is a plain gold saltire on the shield to the left, the colour of the shield and any other charges are gone; of the other shield part of the outline only remains.

This completes the monuments and heraldry inside the Cathedral, thus carrying out the plan proposed at the commencement. We pass from the south transept into the cloisters, giving first the mural tablets, and then the floorslabs on each side successively. Before touching the monuments it will be well to note the heraldry, which are on bosses contemporary with the erection of the cloister. In the east cloister, erected by Bishop Bubwith, there are no arms, though there is a shield with his own coat on the outside.

In the roof of the west side the coat of Bishop Beckyngton is several times repeated.

Three pheons (Sa., three pheons arg.), Nicholl, an ancient family on the borders of Wales. William Nichol, Vicar of Woolavington 1452, ob. 1480.

Three stags' heads cabossed (Arg., three stags' heads cabossed sa.), Henry Bowett, Bishop of Bath and Wells 1401-7. The resemblance of these two coats, when placed one above the other, to the arms of Bishop Beckington is so strong as to be almost conclusive evidence that his arms were formed from them.

A bend betw. three eagles closed (Witham. Or, a bend betw. three eagles closed sa.), William Witham, Dean of Wells 1464-72. He was a younger son of Robert Witham of Grantham, co. York, who made his will 30 Dec. 28 Henry VI., by his wife Margaret, daughter of Richard Skendelley.

A fess betw. three swans rousant (Swann. Az., a fess betw. three swans rousant arg.), Richard Swann, who died in 1487; he was one of the executors of Bishop Beckington.

Three sugar-loaves, and in chief a doctor's cap, Dr. Hugh Sugar, another executor of Bishop Beckington.

A chev. betw. three leopards' faces, Bishop Stillington. A casual look at the shields with this coat, for there are two, might leave it doubtful if the charges were roses or leopards' faces, but, on careful examination, it becomes quite clear that they are leopards' faces. We have some difficulty in accounting for the coat being here satisfactorily. The date is too early for them to be the coat of Godwin of Wells, and we look in vain for any one bearing this coat whose connection with the Cathedral is likely to account for his arms appearing here, unless it be a variation of the family coat of Bishop Stillington. He was a son of John Stillington of Nether Acaster, co. York, who bore, Gu., on a fess arg. betw. three leopards' faces or, as many fleurs-de-lys sa., the fleur-de-lys being a difference from the coat of Stillington of Kelfield, co. York. In one of the windows of the chapel of the Vicar's Close we find this coat, Gu., a chev. arg., betw. three leopards' faces or, and as at that time prominent members of a family made considerable variations in their family arms, this seems the most probable solution, especially as when the cloisters were building Stillington was Bishop, and was building a private chapel on the east side of the cloisters, in which he was buried, and which very unfortunately has long since disappeared, or it would doubtless have given us some interesting and conclusive heraldic evidences. Since this paragraph was written, identifying this coat as that of Bishop Stillington, an examination of the shields in the Vicar's Close has revealed one on which these coats of the chevron and the fess between the leopards' faces are quartered together, which leaves no doubt as to the coat in the cloister roof being that of Bishop Stillington.

Four fusils, the shield being within the garter, inscribed, Hony soyt que malle pense. Gu., fusils conjoined in fess arg., Giles, Lord Daubeny, K.G., who died in 1508, and already noticed.

A saltire betw. two keys addorsed, the bows interlaced, on the dexter, and a sword erect on the sinister, the Dean and Chapter, repeated twice. A saltire, probably intended for the vicars.

France (modern) and England, quarterly, within the garter and crowned. The badge of Bishop Beckington, a beacon-post with ladder, at the top a tun with fire issuing from it, in front of the post is often placed a motto ribbon, the beacon tun being a rebus on the name of Beckington.

In this bless'd Pile, amid whose favouring gloom
Fancy still loves to guard her votarys Tomb,
Shall I withhold what all the virtues claim
The sacred tribute to a Father's name?
And yet bless'd Saint, The skill alone was thine
To breath with truth the tributary line;
The mem'ry of departed worth to save
And snatch the fading laurel from the grave
And oh, my Sisters: peaceful be your rest
Once more reposing on a Father's breast;
You whom he lov'd, whose notes, so lost, so dear
Would sometimes wildly float upon his ear
As the soft Lyre he touched with mournful grace
And recollection's tear bedewed his face.

Yes, most belov'd, If every grateful care
To sooth his hours, his every wish to share.
If the fond mother, and the tender wife
Could add fresh comfort to his Eve of Life;
If youth, if beauty, eloquence could charm,
Genius delight him, & affection warm,
Yours was the pleasing task from day to day
Whilst heav'n approv'd and virtue led the way.

At the top of this monument are sculptured a lyre and flutes; below the inscription is a shield on which can be traced a chevron, Lindley of Shegby, Scotland, Arg., on a chev. sa. three griffins' heads erased of the first. Crest, Out of a crest coronet gu. a demi-boar or. The Yorkshire family of Linley or Lindley bore the heads on a chief instead of on a chevron. The above R. B. Sheridan was the Right Hon. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the statesman, dramatist, and wit, second son of Thomas Sheridan, M.A., of Trinity College, Dublin. He married the above Elizabeth Ann Linley in 1773, and she died in 1792, having had Mary, who died in infancy, and a son, Thomas Sheridan, ancestor of the Sheridans of Frampton Court near Dorchester. Arms of Sheridan, Vert, a lion ramp. betw. three trefoils slipped or. The other daughter Mary Linley married, as his first wife, 25 July 1780, to Richard Tickell (second son of John Tickell of Glasnevin, Dublin, eldest son of Thomas Tickell, Fellow of Queen's College, Oxon, by his wife Clotilda, daughter and heir of Sir Maurice Eustace), a Commissioner of Her Majesty's Stamp Duties, who died 4 Nov. 1793 at Hampton Court Palace. His wife, by whom he left two sons and a daughter, died at Clifton 27 July 1787, and was buried with her father, as the monument records. This family of Tickell used for arms, Quarterly, 1 and 4, Gu., a maunch arg.; 2 and 3, Sa., on a bend arg. three escallops gu. Crest, A cubit arm erect vested gu., charged with three fleurs-de-lis or, cuffed arg., the hand ppr., grasping a fleur-de-lis gold. The above Thomas Linley himself was one of the Patentees of the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane. 1742 Dec. 12 Miss Frances and Miss . . . . Whalley, bur.

This stone and the one before it are for the most part now obliterated, the letters being only painted on, and that having peeled off no legible trace remains. This family claim descent from the ancient Lancashire family of Whalley of Whalley. The above Rev. Richard Chaple Whalley was the fourth son of the Rev. John Whalley, D.D., by Mary, daughter of the Rev. Francis Squire, Chancellor of Wells. He was born in 1748 and married Elizabeth Frances, daughter of the Rev. John Paine, Canon of Wells ; she died in 1795, aged 40. He died in 1817, leaving a son Richard Whalley, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Fordway, Esq., of Wells, and dying in 1830, aged 51, left issue 1, Richard, in holy orders ; 2, John ; 3, Elizabeth ; 4, Mary.

According to Burke's 'Commoners' the arms of this family are, Arg., three whales' heads erased and erect sa., on a canton of the second a mascle of the first. Crest, A whale's head as in the arms, thereon a mascle.

SHERSTON.
BURRELL.

Margaret Isabella Sherston wife of Peter Sherston, Esq.
& only daughter of Peter Burrell of the Town of Leicester, M.D.
died the 6th of April 1779 aged 29.

There is the figure of a female weeping over an urn in relief. The arms, Sa., three hunting horns arg., betw. them a cinquefoil or, are those of Dodington, with the addition of a cinquefoil, which was doubtless originally a mullet, a difference of a third son. The coat was derived evidently from a Dodington, having been married to a Davis, a daughter of which family had married a Sherston.

SHERSTON.

To the memory of
Peter Sherston, Esq.
of Stoberry Hill near this City who died August 14th 1820 aged 75.

This tablet as a faint but faithful record of the worth
an unequal but just tribute to the Integrity Piety and Benevolence of his Character and a slight but sincere token of Duty and Affection to a beloved and lamented Parent is erected and inscribed by his Son.
Also in memory of
Peter Davis, son of the above
Peter Sherston, Esq.
and Lieut. Col^{l} of the 2nd Som^{t} Regiment of Militia ob^{t} May 14th A.D. 1834 Æt. 51.

The Widowed Consort and the Orphaned Boy,
Bereft of those pure fonts of earthly joy,
She a fond Husband's, he a Father's love,
Till reunited in the Realms above,
Here claim the Sympathy which they, who know
How death can wound the living, will bestow.

SHERSTON. Sacred to the memory of Margaret Sherston second wife of Peter Sherston, Esq. of this city and youngest daughter of STRANGWAYS. Thomas Strangways, Esq. of Shapwick in this county.
In all amiable qualities and the christian virtues
a pattern to her sex much esteemed by not a few
by a loving husband and three children heavily deplored.
After a lingering and painful illness which proved a distinguished Piety and exemplary Fortitude
She died on the 10th of January 1795 aged 39.

This monument is adorned with two female figures bending over an urn. Both this lady and her husband are named in the will of her mother Elizabeth Strangways of Shapwick, dated 9 June 1789. Also these arms per pale :—The dexter, Sa., three hunting-horns arg., Dodington, on an escutcheon of pretence a chev. erm. betw. three leaves; the sinister, per fess, in chief, Sa., two lions pass. paly of six arg. and gu., Strangways ; in base, Or, a cross flory sa. surmounted by a bend gu.

SHERSTON.

Near this place lies the Body of Doddington Sherston of this city, gent.
who died November 23rd 1751 aged 46 years.
Likewise of Bridget his wife who died May 25th 1792 aged 72 years.

The thorny path of life she trod,
Revered her duties and adored her God,
To ev'ry station ev'ry credit gave,
And Built on Happiness beyond the grave.

SHERSTON.

Also of William Tucker Sherston son of Doddington Sherston, Gent. and Bridget his wife, who died the 28th of March 1770 in the 19th year of his Age, whilst in the pursuit of Academical Learning with as much Improvement and Attention as his weak Habit of body would permit.
His piety to God, and filial duty to his surviving parent was great and unaffected.
An open and ingenuous Behaviour adorned by genteel manners,
an easy cheerfulness
Recommended by a pleasing modest countenance engaged him the love of all.
Sweetness and equality of temper enabled his youthful and naturally lively mind to bear a lingering and painful disease with a wonderful composure.

These happy endearments with untainted virtues fitted him thro' Jesus Christ for those blissful Regions

Dear kindred shades accept this last adieu
This tribute paid to virtue and to you
Pe: Sherston .... April 1793.

The coat here ascribed to Sherston is not given, nor indeed any other coat for that name, by Guillim, Burke, or Papworth. According to the latter authority, Robert Sherborne, Bishop of St. David's, in 1505, bore Arg., a pelican vert. Bishop Fox, circa 1492, also bore Az., a pelican on its nest or. And the same coat was granted to Sherman of Ipswich in 1715. The impaled coat is that of Tucker, viz., Az., on a chev. emb. at the top betw. three sea-horses naiant or, as many body hearts gu.

DAVIS. Underneath are deposited the remains of Peter Davis Esq^re^
Many years Recorder of this City and one of the Benchers of the Hon^able^ Society of Lincoln's Inn
A man eminently learned in the Laws of his Country, distinguished by a faithful Administration of them:
Unambitious but Uniform
DODINGTON. Religious without Ostentation
In all things sincere.
He was the son of John Davis gent. & Margaret the daughter of Christopher Doddington of Lincoln's Inn Esq.
He married Susanna (the Daughter of Robert Bisse gent. of Wilts), whose domestick and conjugal virtues BISSE. were the comfort of her husband,
the Blessing of her children.
Out of a pious Regard for such excellent Parents
This Monument was erected to her Memory by Peter Davis their only surviving son in the year of our Lord 1749.

Arms are: Sa., three hunting-horns arg., stringed or, in the centre a cinquefoil or, Sherston; impaling, Sa., three escallop-shells in pale arg., Bisse. The Margaret Dodington mentioned in the inscription was the second daughter of Christopher Dodington.

This is a large monument, and is the last on the east side of the cloister, but as the monuments are not in their original place it appears as well to give it here, following others of the same family. It is adorned with two nude infant boys, well sculptured.

The family of Sherston, like that of Bisse and some others, was at an early period connected with the clothworking industry, and although they did not enter a pedigree in either of the Heraldic Visitations of Somerset, the name occurs in the neighbourhood of Bath in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Mary, daughter of William Sherston of Bath, was the second wife of Thomas Pryn of Swanswick, and had remarried before 1623 to Edward Capell of the same place; and Margaret, daughter of .... Sherston of Bath, was married to John Clarke of Bristol, merchant, before 1570.

From Anthony à Wood's MSS. we learn the following: Peter Sherston of Bath, with Walter Chapman and Thomas Wist, paid in 1603 money they had given and collected for the repairs of Bath Abbey. William Sherston, Alderman, and eight times Mayor of Bath, bequeathed £100 by annual instalments of 40s. out of the parsonage of Lyncombe. On the east wall of the chancel of Bath Abbey was formerly a monument to William Sherston, who died 26 Aug. 1621, with an epitaph, but no arms.

They have used for arms a stork or heron standing on its nest, as on the monument of Dodington Sherston, and this coat is also cut on a floorslab in Bath Abbey, impaled by Bushell, but the inscription is unfortunately gone. James Bussell married Mary Sherston, their daughter Mary being born in 1707. They have also used a chevron between three like birds, but these arms were never allowed, granted, or confirmed to them. After inheriting the estates of the Davis family, Peter Sherston applied for and obtained a grant of the arms granted to his maternal great-uncle Peter Davis; itself a most singular grant, for it was the coat of Dodington of Dodington, which neither family in any way represented, with the small difference of a cinquefoil in the centre. The grant shews the poor heraldic knowledge and taste then existing even at Heralds' College itself, and is all the more singular, since we find a John Davis of Wells sealing documents 1698 as a Justice of Peace with his arms (Gu.), a griffin segreant (or); Crest, A griffin as in the arms; whom there is no reason to doubt was the father of Jane, wife of William Sherston. This is further strengthened by the fact that the will of Matthew Baron of Milton in St. Cuthbert's parish, dated 1720, is witnessed by P. Davis, and sealed with the same arms and crest, the griffin segreant. The grant should have been the heron coat, with some addition, quartering the griffin of Davis. That this Welsh family should have settled in Wells is by no means strange, being the same as Rees Davis, who married the heiress of Maurice Rodney. Nevertheless this differenced coat of Dodington is now the lawfully recognised coat of Sherston. The grant, which by the courtesy of the family we are able to give, is as follows:—

TO all and Singular to whom these presents shall come, Sir Isaac Heard Knight Garter Principal King of Arms, and Thomas Lock, Esquire, Clarenceux King of Arms of the South, East and West parts of England from the river Trent southward, send greeting. Whereas Peter Sherston of the City of Wells in the County of Somerset Esquire hath represented unto the most noble Charles Duke of Norfolk Earl Marshal and Hereditary Marshal of England, that his maternal great uncle Peter Davis of Wells aforesaid Esquire obtained a Patent of Arms under the Hand and Seals of John Anstis Esq. Garter Principal King of Arms and Stephen Martin Leake Esq. Clarenceux King of Arms, bearing date the sixth day of June 1745 to him and his descendants That the said Peter Davis left issue only two sons both of whom dying unmarried the armorial ensigns granted in the said Patent became extinct, and the said Peter Sherston became the heir general of that Family. He is therefore desirous out of respect to the said family of Davis of bearing the arms contained in the Patent aforesaid, and hath requested the favour of his Grace's Warrent to the Kings of Arms concerned for their confirming the same to him and his Descendants according to the Laws of Arms. And forasmuch as his Grace did by Warrent under his Hand and Seal bearing date the sixteenth day of May instant, authorize and direct us to confirm such arms, accordingly, Know ye therefore that We the said Garter and Clarenceux in pursuance of the consent of the said Earl Marshal and by virtue of the Letters Patent of our several offices to each of us respectively granted under the Great Seal of Great Britain do by these Presents confirm to the said Peter Sherston the arms following, that is to say, Sable, a cinquefoil or, between three Bugle Horns Argent stringed of the second, and for the crest, On a wreath of the Colours a Stag couchant regardant or, armed and Hoofed Gules, charged on the shoulder with a cinquefoil Vert, as the same are in the margin hereof more plainly depicted, To be borne and used for ever hereafter by him the said Peter Sherston and his Descendants according to the Laws of Arms without the Let or Interruption of any Person or Persons whatsoever. In Witness whereof We the said Garter and Clarenceux Kings of Arms have to the Presents subscribed our names and affixed the Seals of our several Offices this sixteenth day of May in the thirty third year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the third by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith etc., and in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninty three.

(Signed) Isaac Heard,
Garter Principal King of Arms.
[Seal, Arms of Garter imp. Heard.]

Thomas Lock,
Clarenceux King of Arms.
[Seal, Arms of Clarenceux imp. Lock.]

It is strange the Probate Registry at Wells gives so little help in the way of Sherston wills. The wills of Isabella Sheathstone of Glastonbury, 1680, and William Sherston of Charlecombe, 1733, are no good: that of Peter Sherston of Bath does little more; it is dated 30 Oct. 1662, calls himself of Bath, clothier; names his dwelling house, his fuller's mills, his mill called Monk's mill, his brother John Sherston, brother William Sherston, brother Arthur Sherston, brother Thomas Sherston; sisters Mary, Elizabeth, and Sarah Sherston; cousin Arthur Sherston, and kinsman Thomas Neild of Westeaton; proved at Wells 18 Dec. 1662.

The accompanying pedigree is compiled from registers, monuments, and family information.

The following register extracts may also be interesting, though they could not be placed in the pedigree.

From the Bishop's transcripts of parish registers we find that Thomas Bridges, Esq., and Mrs. Anna Rodney were married at Pilton 15 Oct. 1640; and the same authority supplies the baptism of Mary, daughter of Mr. Richard Bridges, at the Abbey Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Bath, on 14 Dec. 1624. While from the marriage allegations at Wells we learn that Mr. Arthur Flower applied for a licence for the marriage of William Merricke of Keynsham, merchant, and Hester Bridges of Winterburne, co. Gloucester, spinster, which was granted 30 Nov. 1677, the marriage to take place at Keynsham, Farmborough, Farleigh, or Compton Dando.

This inscription was doubtless formerly part of the large monument, having the recumbent effigy of the Bishop, in the St. John Chapel. The statement in Burke's 'Commoners' (vol. iv., p. 55), on the authority of this monument, that Bishop Creyghton was born at Dunkeld, is an error. The deduction from the inscription appears to be that the Bishop's father, Thomas Crichton, was a younger son of Crichton of Ruthven, but the arms being different, for Crichton of Ruthven bore, Arg., a lion ramp. az., on a chief of the last three lozenges of the first; while the head of the family at that time, Viscount Frendraught, bore, Arg., a lion ramp. az., armed and langued gu., Ruthven being a cadet of Frendraught, but it is quite possible the Bishop discontinued the chief and made the field ermine for difference.

By his wife Frances, daughter of William Walrond, Esq., he had :—

I. Robert, Canon of Wells, etc., who married and had issue : Alexander, died 1739 ; Catherine, married Rev. Henry Layng, Archdeacon of Wells ; Frances, married Marshall Brydges ; and Margaret, mar. Rev. John Pope, Chancellor of Wells.

II. Thomas, buried in the Cathedral.

III. George.

IV. Katherine, mar. to Francis Poulett.

The Bishop's will is dated 17 Nov. 1672, and was proved by his son Robert 31 Dec. 1672. (P.C.C., 148 Eure.)

Arms: Arg., three bulls' heads caboshed sa., Walrond, being those of her family only. This tablet is doubtless only a portion of the original monument. Her father is commemorated by a floorslab in the Cathedral, which see.

Her will, as Frances Creyghton of Wells, widow, dated 20 November 1678, and proved 22 February 1683 by her son Robert (P.C.C., 13 Hare), names her grandson Robert, son of Dr. Robert Creyghton; also Katherine and Margaret, daus. of Robert Creyghton, D.D.; her dau. Katherine Poulett; and her son George Creyghton.

In the Parish Register of St. Cuthbert, Wells, is recorded the marriage of John Creyghton of Drysdale, co. Annandale, Scotland, and Jane Dowden of East Pennard on 2 January 1718. In the same register we find the baptism of Mary, dau. of William and Abigail Creyghton on 7 June 1696.

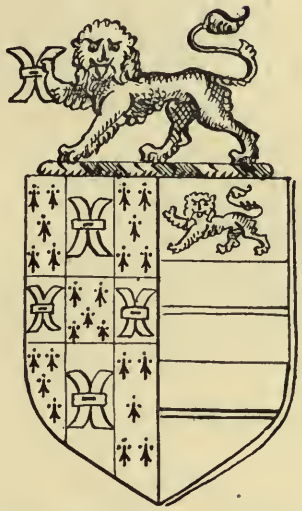
Will of A. Creighton.

Alexander Creighton of St. John's, Glastonbury, mercer. Will dated 7 Aug. 1736; proved at Wells 18 Aug. 1739 by the trustees. Names marriage settlement with Hannah his wife, annuity of twenty pounds a year; confirms certain rent charges to John Earle of Shepton Mallet, mercer; John Routhedge of Newport Pagnel, Bucks, laceman; John Wilcox, woolcomber; and James Fell, schoolmaster, both of St. John, Glastonbury, in trust. The house, etc., in which he dwells, with other lands, to his son John Creighton at 21 years of age, remainder over to dau. Mary, wife of the above John Routhedge. Brother John Creighton of Drusedale in the co. of Annandale in Scotland. Witnesses, Robert Watson, John Stroud, William Maddock. Seal, an eagle displayed, but not on a shield.



TURNER. Near this place are deposited the remains of the Venerable John Turner, A.M., Archdeacon of Taunton and for the space of almost Forty year Canon Residentiary of this Cathedral during which period he watched with singular constancy over the performance of those solemn services to which it is consecrated.
His unaffected piety displayed itself in his pastoral character, by the singleness of heart with which he discharged its important duties within these walls, by the simple and artless eloquence with which he enforced the Doctrines of Christianity in every relation of life, by the Purity, innocence and active benevolence of his whole conduct.
In testimony of deep and affectionate veneration his three surviving children have raised this monument to his memory.
Born May 31st 1734. Died March 28th 1817.

Beneath this stone are deposited the mortal remains FRANKLAND. of the Rev^{d} Roger Frankland, M.A. of Muntham in Sussex, Canon of this Cathedral, Rector of Yartington and Vicar of Dulverton both in this Diocese.
He was the youngest son of Ad^{l} Sir Tho^{s} Frankland Bart. of Thirkleby in Yorkshire, was born on the 17th Nov^{r} 1762, and married the 14th of June 1792 Catherine youngest daughter of John, 9th Lord Colville of Culross in the kingdom of Scotland & by her he had twelve children.
To a highly cultivated & accomplished mind which shone forth COLVILLE. even in his last days, he united all the warm & benevolent feelings of the heart, his truly gentlemanlike & engaging manners, his ready and lively wit, added to his universal knowledge made him a brilliant and cherished ornament to society.
In his intercourse with mankind, he was strictly honourable & upright in the fulfilment of the relative duties of life.
None could exceed him for he was a good son, a tender faithful & affectionate husband, a fond and indulgent parent.
Tho' blest with talents calculated to shine in public life he early retired to the duties of a village pastor, which he faithfully discharged for twenty six years beloved and respected by all his parishioners.
The mild patience & resignation with which he supported his last illness united to his affectionate & touching deportment to his weeping and surrounding family must ever be present to their recollection & endear his memory to their hearts.
Finally, beloved & regretted by all who knew him he departed this life the 25th of March 1826 and (to use his own words) in the full hope of the mercies of God thro'
the redemption of Jesus Christ.
This monument is erected & inscribed to his memory by his devoted wife & deeply afflicted widow.

FOSTER.

Beneath this Tablet repose the remains of Joanna Slade
relict of the Rev^{d} Robert Foster.
Of humbleness of mind, benevolence of heart, placidity of temper, patient endurance of bodily pain, untireing watchfulness, anticipating the wants and alleviating the trials of a beloved husband when his sight had become darkened.
If these and other graces united as they were with utter self renunciation and full and implicit reliance on Christ as her only Saviour and Redeemer are characteristics of the people of God we may humbly hope that she is now numbered among those of whom it has been declared:
"They shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts,
in that day when I make up my jewels."
She was born 12th July 1778, and died 22 Nov^{r} 1846.

FOSTER.

Sacred to the memory of
the Revd Robert Foster, A.M.
Prebendary and Priest Vicar of this Cathedral and Rector of Sutton Bonington, Notts
He was born May 24th 1766. Died Sep. 20, 1836.
A good soldier of Jesus Christ
he studied to shew himself approved of God
a workman that needeth not to be ashamed.
Gentle unto all men, yet neglected not to speak the things that become sound doctrine with all authority.
His eyesight weak from his birth waxed more and more dim with advancing years, till at length
those who looked out of the windows were darkened but a light sprang up in the darkness, while those around shed the silent tear, contemplating his painful loss,
a holy joy would brighten up his countenance
so that of him it might truly be said, he kissed the rod that smote him.

Thy sun shall no more go down; neither shall thy moon withdraw itself: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended. ISAIAH lx. 20.

FOSTER.

Sacred
to the memory of
Charles Edward Foster
Lieutenant in the first Royal Dragoons and son of the Rev^{d} Edward Foster Prebendary and Priest Vicar of Wells Cathedral.
During the war in Spain he was engaged in various actions with the French and his gallantry is recorded in the 'Despatches' of the Great General under whom he served subsequently he accompanied his regiment to Belgium and fell mortally wounded on the field of Waterloo June 18th 1815
in the 26th year of his age.
Sacred also to the memory of Edward son of the Rev^{d} F. D. Foster
Rector of Dodington Gloucestershire.
He died in the 5th year of his age and was buried underneath 29th Jan. 1841.
Though so young he had strong religious impressions and his parents in the depth of their sorrow were comforted by the belief that he was one of those little ones of whom Christ said,
Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

FOSTER.

This tablet is erected by
C. M. Woods to the beloved memory of her uncle the Reverend Francis Drake Foster
who died on the 23rd September 1882
in the 88th year of his age.
He was curate of Dodington in the county of Gloucester 10 years and Rector 35 in which parish he commenced and ended his ministry.
His sincere piety and singular
kindliness of disposition endeared him to the hearts of all who knew him while his unobtrusive and openhanded charity won for him the respect and affection of the poor.

Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps.
1 Peter ii. chap., 21 v.

Also
in affectionate memory of her aunt FOSTER. Caroline Margaret Foster who departed this life July 4th 1870 in the 68th year of her age.
The devoted wife of the Reverend Francis Drake Foster.

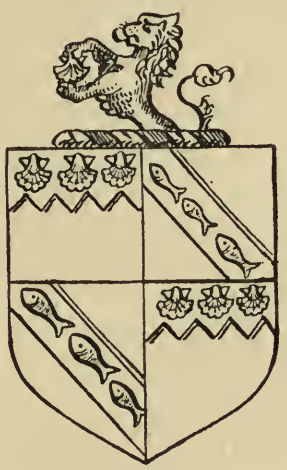
If we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. 1 THESS. iv. ch., 14 v.



Sacred
to the memory of TAYLOR. William Taylor Esq. of the city of Wells who departed this life the 13th Augst 1776
in the 66th year of his age.
He lived and died with unsullied reputation, beloved respected and regretted by all his acquaintances.
Here stranger deign to pay the tribute of a tear so eminently due to the memory of an honest man.
In the same grave are interred the remains of Catherine his wife who died the 6th day of January 1764 in the 50th year of her age.
This monument is erected by his brother Peter Taylor Esq.
of Purbrook Park in the county of Southampton.
Repaired by C. W. Taylor Esq.
Member of Parliament for this city 1813.

Arms: Quarterly, 1 and 4, Erm., on a chief indent. (sa.) three escallop-shells (or), Taylor; 2 and 3, (Arg.), on a bend (sa.) three roaches of the first, Huish. Crest: A demi-lion ramp. (erm.), betw. the paws an escallop (or). On the monument there are lines for the colours representing the chief purpure and the bend gules, but doubtless in error.

The Cathedral Register records the burial on 9 Jan. 1764 of Mrs. Catherine Taylor, and on 17 Aug. 1776 the burial of William Taylor, Esq. The following extracts relating to this family will supply much additional information.

JAMES.

Near this spot
are interred the mortal remains of the Revd
William James, M.A., for 50 years Priest Vicar of this Cathedral Church.
He died January 8th 1859 aged 78 years.

Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. JOHN xi. 26.

This tablet was erected in tender recollection by his widow.
Also Mary Ann
Relict of the above William James who died September 4th 1880 aged 92 years.

LAX.

Sacred
to the memory of
John Lax, gent.
who died May 9th 1845 aged 74 years.
Also of three children by Elizabeth his wife
Robert George Lax, who died Oct. 16th 1812 aged 2 years and 9 months.
Sophia Lax, who died March 18th 1821
aged 13 years.
Charles Lax, who died March 18th 1841
aged 35 years.
Also Elizabeth, Relict of the above John Lax who died July 10th 1848 aged 71 years.

BURLAND. In memory of John Berkeley Burland son of the Honorable Sir John Burland Knight one of the Barons of His Majesty's Exchequer and of Lætitia his wife the Daughter of William Berkeley Portman, and Ann only Daughter of Sir Edward Seymour of Maiden Bradley, Bart.
Speaker of the House of Commons and Comptroller of the Household of Queen Anne.
He was educated to the profession of the law, but quitted it at an early period and became a Magistrate in his native county in which situation his knowledge talents and assiduity soon raised him to the most eminent place which to the end of his life he filled with distinguished reputation.
In a crisis of public danger he accepted the command of a military corps, and devoted himself to its improvement and discipline,
with an energy which had always belonged to his character.
In the year MDCCXCIX he was elected to a seat in the House of Commons where until his death in November MDCCCIV he discharged his trust with exemplary zeal and integrity.
To his uniform and disinterested benevolence, the liberality and independence of his mind and the urbanity of his manners, the friends who loved and lamented him bear the most sincere testimony.

At the top is a medallion carved in high relief of a female figure supporting the deceased, towards whom the skeleton Death stretches his hand. Round this is the cypress, scales, and cross, and an open book on which is inscribed, "My flesh and my heart faileth : but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever. Ps. 73 v. 26."

Arms : 1 and 4, Erm., on a chief emb. gu. three cinquefoils arg.; 2 and 3, Arg., a fess betw. three lions couchant gard. gu., Morris ; on an escutcheon of pretence, Gu., six cinquefoils and a chief indented arg., for Farr ; but this appears to be an error ; the coat does not occur in Papworth, nor does Burke give it for the name of Farr ; it appears to be founded on the coat of Farra of Norfolk, viz., Arg., on two bars gu. six cinquefoils or, a chief indented of the last. He married the daughter and heir of John Farr, Esq., of Stock House near Sherbourne, and became of that place.

In a 'Survey of the Western Counties,' published in 1791, which contains the arms of subscribers, the same coats are assigned to him, except that the second and third quarters are given as, Erm., on a fess az. three boars' heads couped or (Lewis of Stoke, co. Dorset). His wife died 12 Feb. 1802, aged 48.

PEACH. Daughter of the late Samuel Peach
In hopes of a joyful resurrection
through the merits of our Saviour Jesus Christ.
He died April 3rd 1794
aged 30 years.

Arms: Paly of six or and gu., on a bend sa. three mullets or, Elton. The above Isaac Elton was the eldest son of Isaac Elton of Clifton, Esq., son of Jacob Elton, second son of Sir Abraham Elton, Bart. He was Sheriff of Bristol in 1765, and married first Sarah, daughter of Samuel Peach of Bristol, by whom he had the above-named son, who died unmarried, and she dying 16 December 1763, he married secondly Ann, daughter of James Tierney of Theobalds, Herts, by whom he had another son Isaac Elton of Stapleton House, co. Gloucester, married Katherine, daughter of Major Bayard, by whom he left four sons and three daughters.

HEBDON.

In memory of Richard Hebdon
gent second son of Sr John Hebdon Knt., departed this life the 21st day of Januay 1668 in the 30th year of his age.
Erected by John Hebdon Esq.

Arms: 1 and 4, Erm., five lozenges conjoined in fess gu., Hebdon (ancient); 2 and 3, Erm., on a chief indented az. three crescents or, Hebdon; granted 28 March 1659 by Sir Edward Walker to Sir John Hebdon and his brother Thomas Hebdon; on the centre a crescent gold, the difference of a second son. Le Neve says Sir John was knighted at Whitehall 30 May 1663, was agent to the Emperor of Russia, and made his fortune in Muscovy by trade. He was son of John Hebdon, citizen of London (son of John Hebdon of Yorkshire), and had, according to the same authority, the two sons named on the monument, which also names this Richard as being buried in the "South Crosse Ile," so that the floorslab (p. 34) is in or near its original place. The brother John Hebdon, Esq., married Ellen, daughter of Sir John Jacob, Bart., of Bromley, Middlesex.

LUKIN. George William Lukin, D.D. Dean of this Cathedral, who died 28 Nov. 1812 aged 74.

In Nurseling (otherwise Nutshelling) Church, Hants, is a monument to the Rev. John Lukin, M.A. (son of the Dean), Prebendary of Wells, and thirty-seven years Rector of Nurseling, who died 15 Dec. 1846, aged 64, erected by his eldest son John Mayow Lukin. Arms: Arg., a lion ramp. gu., debruised by a bend gobony or and az., Lukin; imp. Quarterly sa. and arg., in the first quarter a lion ramp. of the second, Byng. This was his second wife, the Hon. Lucy Elizabeth, eldest daughter of George, sixth Viscount Torrington, by his first wife Elizabeth, daughter of Philip Langmead of Plymouth, Esq.

In the same church is a tablet for his first wife Emma Easton Lukin, who died 30 April 1813, aged 23. Arms: Lukin as before; on an escutcheon of pretence, Per chev. gu. and or, three sea-dragons crowned counterchanged, Easton of Devon.

In a small work, printed in 1814, termed 'A Concise History of the Cathedral Church of St. Andrew in Wells,' by John Davis, Verger of the Cathedral, a catalogue of the monuments is added—at least so it professes to be. It is useful as giving the position of the more prominent monuments before their removal to their present positions, but it is very imperfect. From the descriptions it is plain, as their present appearance indicates, that most of the accessory ornaments in the way of pillars, etc., have been destroyed in the removal to the cloisters. The following four memorials are given which are not now to be found:—

In the Lady Chapel an ancient stone to the memory of Sir John Newton, Bart., who died 4 Feb. 1661, with this couplet:

Hoc non jacet corpus loco Sed hic jacet pars pro toto.

Near the altar was the following on a brass plate in Old English characters:

Hic jacet Mayr Johes Spekington, hujus ecclesiæ canonicus et subdecanus, qui obiit penultimo die Mensis Decembris Ano 1462. Cujus animæ propitietur Deus. Amen.

Under a seat near St. Mary's Chapel is a brass plate to the memory of Sir John Bernard, Treasurer and Residentiary of this Church, who died 30 April 1459.

Not far from thence lies Wm. Witham, Sub-dean, who died July 16, 1472.

In the South Aisle:

Of the Soule of John Braham, Canon,
Good Lord have mercy.

IN THE PALM CHURCHYARD.

THE PALACE.

Over the archway of the gatehouse, on the inside, is a shield carved in wood of the arms, a plain saltire for the See, impaling Creyghton, as in the Cathedral.

Over the entrance porch of the Palace itself is a modern shield of Bath Priory : Az., two keys addorsed the bows interlaced in bend sinister, with a sword in bend dexter ; imp. Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly counter-changed or and arg. ; lines being given for the colours. The same arms are repeated on a shield of the same age over the fireplace in the hall.

A large stone shield near the foot of the grand staircase has the arms of Bishop Beckington, the shield being contemporary with him, as are also two shields of the same size and shape in the crypt, one of which is charged with the rebus of that Bishop, the flaming beacon with a scroll across the post, the other shield bearing the ancient arms of the See, viz. : A saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale betw. the two keys on the dexter and the sword on the sinister. This has been painted, the field blue and the charges all gold.

In the Crypt are also the following :—A shield, boldly cut in wood and now fixed over the fireplace, has, Az., a saltire surmounting a pastoral staff in pale betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword erect all or ; imp. Gu., a pelican in its piety or ; over the shield a mitre, at the sides the date 1663. The painting is modern. These are the arms of Bishop William Pierce, only the field should be az., not gu., according to Papworth's Ordinary, etc.

In the windows of the Crypt are : Gu., on a bend arg. three trefoils vert, in chief a martlet arg., Hervey, with the difference of a fourth son ; imp. Arg., three chevs. gu. betw. as many martlets sa., Singleton. Crest : A leopard pass. sa. bezantée, gorged with a coronet and chained or, in the dexter paw a trefoil vert. Supporters : Two leopards sa. bezantée, gorged with coronets and chained or, for Lord and Lady Arthur C. Hervey. Gu., on a bend arg. three trefoils vert, Hervey. Another window has the crest of Hervey as above. The remaining three windows have respectively the modern and incorrect arms of the See, the initials A. C. H., and a bishop's mitre.

In the east window of the Palace Chapel are three shields and some broken pieces of old glass fitted together ; the shields are modern, and are : 1, Az., a saltire or ; 2, The modern and incorrect arms of the See ; 3, The same as the last, imp. Erm., on a bend eng. betw. two cocks gu. three mullets or pierced of the second, Bishop Law. These same arms (No. 3) are repeated in a staircase window at the other side of the house. The arms of Bishop Law in the Chapel were once blown out across the terrace below, and fell uninjured on the grass.

The following arms are on portraits in the gallery :—

Cardinal Wolsey, Sa., on a cross eng. arg. a lion pass. gu. betw. four leopards' faces az., on a chief or a rose of the third betw. two Cornish choughs ppr.

Bishop Montagu, Gu., a sword in bend sinister arg. hilt and pomel or betw. two keys in bend dexter addorsed the bows interlaced, the lower of the second, the upper of the third, the See of Winchester; imp. Arg., three fusils conjoined in fess gu. within a bord. sa., Montagu. Bishop James Montagu was translated from Bath and Wells to Winchester. He was the fifth son of Sir Edward Montagu and brother of the first Earl of Manchester; he died unmarried in 1618. His arms are on his tomb in Bath Abbey, and carved on the great west doors there.

Bishop Walter Curle, the See of Winchester as above; imp. Vert, a chev. eng. or. The Bishop was advanced to the See of Winchester in 1632, and his son Sir Walter Curle was created a Baronet in 1678, but dying without issue that title became extinct. On the picture the arms look more like Sa., a chev. arg., being much discoloured; the above coat is from their monuments at Soberton, Hants.

Bishop Thomas Godwin, the modern arms of the See; imp. Or, two lions pass. sa., on a canton of the last three bezants, Godwin. The picture has the appearance of having been recently painted or restored, and as a consequence the wrong arms of the See are given.

It is rather singular that on the portrait of Cardinal Wolsey his family arms only are painted, while those of Curle and Montagu have the arms of the Diocese of Winchester, shewing that they were painted after both Bishops had been translated to the higher See, the garter round the arms leaving no doubt as to this fact.

It must be owned that, though so interesting from many points as an example of Early Domestic architecture, the Palace is disappointing from an heraldic point, largely due to the bad usage it has received in past times from the hands of the spoilers.

In the Library are the arms of Bishop Bagot, viz., Erm., two chevs. az.; imp. Arg., on a cross gu. five escallop-shells or, Villiers. This is in the corners of the ceiling, and carved at the top of some of the bookcases.

In the stonework of an oriel window is cut (Arg.), on a chev. (sa.) three escallop-shells (of the first), Bishop King. This coat, now nearly obliterated, is cut impaled by the coat of the See on the exterior stonework of the west window of the north aisle of Bath Abbey.

THE DEANERY.

This building exhibits less heraldry than might be expected from its size, age, and from its having been the residence of a long line of Deans, though no doubt much was swept away during the Puritan ascendancy, when the Deanery was occupied by Cornelius Burgess, nor was it spared the supposed improvements by which old houses were so often spoiled in the early part of this nineteenth century.

The arms of the Deanery do not once occur.

Taking the exterior first: on the battlements of the north wall of the yard and facing the main gateway is a shield bearing the arms of William Wykeham, Bishop of Winchester, viz., (Arg.), two chevronels (sa.) betw. three roses (gu.); of the rose in base a trace only remains.

On the right of the main entrance to the house is a large panel with three shields, two being charged with the badge of Dean Gunthorpe, a pistolet with the leather belt for carrying it, the centre shield being charged with the sun, on it a rose.

On the north side of the house there are eight shields on which these badges are repeated. There is on this side in a piece of new stonework a shield with this coat, (Arg.), a chev. betw. in chief two mullets pierced and in base an annulet (sa.); Crest, From flames, a demi-phœnix (ppr.); the arms of Dean Plumptre's family.

In the interior of the house, on the stone arch over what was the roof of an oriel window on the south side of the old dining hall, but now forms a doorway of a passage leading to the drawing room, are two shields, both charged with the quartered coat on the tomb of Dean Gunthorpe, namely: 1 and 4, A chev. betw. three hand grenades or guns, all within a bord. eng.; 2 and 3, A chev. betw. three lions' heads erased. These two shields are very interesting, and valuable evidence of the arms of Dean Gunthorpe; it confirms the remarks made regarding the arms on his tomb (p. 75), and leaves no doubt that the three guns were his own arms.

In the hall are the following shields:—

I. Quarterly of six: 1, Or, on a pile gu. betw. six fleurs-de-lys az. three lions pass. gard. in pale of the first, coat of augmentation granted by King Henry VIII. to Seymour; 2, Gu., two wings in lure or, Seymour; 3, Vaire, Beauchamp; 4, Arg., three demi-lions ramp. gu., Fisher; 5, Per bend arg. and gu., three roses in bend counterchanged, MacWilliams; 6, Arg., on a bend gu. three leopards' faces or; on the centre of the quarterings a martlet sa. for difference—at least that is what it should be, being the arms of Lord Francis Seymour, Dean of Wells, whose monument has been mentioned (p. 190), but this has been reversed by the glazier, making the whole read backwards, besides which it was only painted on the glass, and the colours are mostly gone; the fourth quarter is quite gone, and supplied by a piece of glass with a fancy pattern on it.

II. Arg., a chev. betw. in chief two mullets pierced, and in base an annulet, all sa., Plumptre; imp. Gu., a lion ramp. regard. or, Maurice. Motto, Sufficit meruisse. Being the arms of the Very Rev. Edward Hayes Plumptre, M.A., D.D., the late Dean, impaling those of his wife's family. The Dean was the third son of Edward Hallows Plumptre, Esq., eldest surviving son of Charles, second son of Septimus, sixth son of John Plumptre of Nottingham, by his wife Annabella, eldest daughter of Sir Francis Molyneux, Bart. The Dean married in July 1848 Harriet Theodosia, youngest daughter of the Rev. Michael Maurice of Notting Hill, London. Mrs. Plumptre died 3 April 1889. Correctly speaking, there should be a fleur-de-lys charged with a crescent on the chevron for the proper difference of his father, and another crescent in chief for his own difference. There is a pedigree of the Dean's family in Burke's 'Landed Gentry.'

III. Az., two keys in bend sinister and a pastoral staff in bend dexter, all or. Round it is the motto: Esto quod es. The Priory of Bath bore this coat, only with a sword in place of the pastoral staff.

This completes the heraldry in the Deanery.

THE VICAR'S CLOSE.

In what is known as the Vicar's Close we shall find much that is most interesting heraldically.

The Vicar's Close was built by the executors of Bishop Beckington in the fulfilment of that prelate's will, and consists of dwelling-houses for the priests, vicars, and vicars-choral; a common hall over the entrance gateway; a chapel, with a library over it; these, with the exception of minor alterations and restorations, remain in their original state.

We will first take the common hall, which is reached by a flight of stone stairs immediately to the left on entering. This hall has been divided, and the main part has been used as the Library of the Theological College. On the north side of the room are three windows, two small ones and a large one of four lights. In the first one is a graceful figure of St. Catherine holding her wheel, in the next window is the head of a bishop. In the upper part of the large window are two small figures, a bishop holding a book, and a priest vicar, from his mouth a label on which is the word "Misere." Below these are four shields: the first is, Vert, a cross botonnée arg.; in the first quarter a scrap of glass has replaced a demi-virgin and child; the arms of Glastonbury Abbey, the virgin having been removed doubtless as papistical. The next two shields are gone, and supplied by plain coloured glass. The fourth shield has, Or, a lion ramp. gu. within a bord eng. sa., Pomroy. The lion is so patched as to be hardly recognised. Round each shield is a circular ribbon or garter, on which is this legend: "Domino Ric'o Pomroy Ih'us merci p' me." It is very vexatious that the two central shields in this and the opposite window should have been broken, and not a trace left by which we can come to any satisfactory conclusion as to what was there; if we might hazard a guess, we should say they were the See, the Deanery, the Corporation of Vicars, and the Priory of Bath.

In stone over the window is a shield carved and painted, Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly counterchanged or and arg. Turning to the large window on the opposite side of the room, to the left, close to the window, is a stone shield charged with the coat just given, but with the addition of the name "Ric'us Pomeroy," thus: in chief, Ric'us; on the dexter, Po; on the sinister, me; in base, roy. In this window are also two small figures, namely, St. Peter with the keys and St. Paul with the sword, and four shields, of which two are gone, and their place taken by coloured glass. Of the others, one is Pomeroy, as in the other window, the last of the four is Glastonbury as above, the whole of the first quarter being replaced by plain green glass to get rid of the virgin and child. These shields have the same inscription round them with slight variations, thus: "D'no Ric'o Pomroy mercy oræti p' me." In stone over the window is carved and painted the same shield as over the window on the north side already mentioned. The only other coloured glass is a female saint in the further window of this (south) side.

On the stone fireplace are five shields, with a ribbon which passes behind them, and on which is this inscription; the asterisks mark the points at which the shields come over it, or rather interrupt it, being cut in the same stone: "In * bets pcibs he'at Co * me do'm Ricardu' * Pomroy Quem * Salvet' Jh's Ame * n;"

which like the windows breathes a pious desire for the repose of the soul of Richard Pomroy, who was a considerable benefactor of the vicars and master of the Cathedral fabric. The shields are painted with these arms:—

I. Or, two bars az. surmounted by a horse's head erased erm., and in chief three escallop-shells gu., Clark.

II. Per fess gu. and arg., on a fess. az., betw. in chief three bucks' heads or, and in base as many pheons sa., a bishop's mitre of the third, Bishop Beckington.

III. Quarterly: 1 and 4, France, modern; 2 and 3, England.

IV. Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly countercharged or and arg., surmounting a pastoral staff in pale of the second, and betw. on the dexter two keys the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword erect, all of the last, for the See.

V. Or, a lion ramp. gu. armed and langued az. within a bord. eng. sa., Pomeroy.

These shields have never been carved; the more pity, for we should then have at any rate the outline of what was originally put on them, for there can be little doubt that the arms now painted on the shields are of much later date.

Now this being the case, it is most desirable, particularly on account of shields one and four, to ascertain as nearly as possible the date of the painting. In the first place, from the fact of the arms of Clark being there, we may safely conclude that the date cannot be earlier than A.D. 1523, in which year John Clark was consecrated Bishop, and as we shall see presently it was probably the arms of a later member of that family; then again, they must have been painted before the close of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, as the royal arms of the Tudor sovereigns are displayed, the arms being altered after the accession of James I. Secondly, the character of the painting itself points to the close of the sixteenth century.

Taking the shields in order: the first shield is usually assigned to Bishop Clark. Unfortunately, no example of his seal exists, or at any rate, after much inquiry, has been accessible, but his arms are in a window of the Cathedral already noticed, which there is no reason to question was put up in his lifetime, and there certainly is no horse's head in that shield. We know that bishops were fond of differencing their coat armour from that of their family, but generally with something allusive to their office, and a horse's head certainly bears no reference to episcopal rank.

On the other hand, Bishop Clark had a relative, Sir Rowland Clark, who was knighted by Edward, Duke of Somerset, in the camp before Roxburgh in 1547, to whose knightly rank the horse's head would be a much more appropriate augmentation. Members of this family were connected with the neighbourhood quite late enough to account for the knight's arms being painted here in place of, or in mistake for, the arms of Bishop Clark. Sir Rowland Clark was living in 1565, as shewn by his being named in the will of his cousin Henry Clarke of Wells (p. 142), and who may in some way have been a benefactor to the Vicars. At any rate, without very good cause to the contrary, this seems the most reasonable explanation for this shield, especially as there appears no reason for the arms of Bishop Clark being put there when all the evidence points to the painting being executed at a later date.

The next shield in order is that of Bishop Beckington. This shield is most interesting, as it varies from the examples that exist in coloured glass. Before we can accept it as setting at rest the question as to the colours of the arms, we must consider the point as to whether the painter was taking a liberty with the arms to make them conform to what had then become an acknowledged rule, that metal must not be placed on metal or colour on colour, or had he before him coloured examples we do not possess? If the former, it appears more probable that he would have made the stags' heads red. On the other hand, we know that the old glass painters did use a thin coating of red glass where they wanted to place small figures on it, cutting them out and letting the main glass, either plain or stained yellow, show through, and which coating is also known to have sometimes cracked and slipped away; unquestionable examples of which we can point to, as, for instance the royal arms in the north aisle. As this last may very well have been the case in the instances we have of Beckington's arms in glass, we may assume that he bore the field of his arms, Per fess gules and argent.

The third shield has the royal arms of Queen Elizabeth correctly painted.

The fourth shield gives us the earliest example we have of the cross saltire formed of two metals, combined with the keys, sword, and pastoral staff. This shield, when taken in connection with the seal of the Vicars, helps materially to prove the date at which these shields were painted, and also that the coat is an unauthorized one. The seal of the Corporation of Vicars was cut soon after the reconstruction of the whole Cathedral body by Queen Elizabeth in the twenty-fourth year of her reign, and displays these arms: A saltire per saltire and quarterly, betw. on the dexter two keys erect and addorsed, the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword point in chief and surmounting a pastoral staff in pale. The legend round it leaves no doubt about its being the seal of the Vicars. Here undoubtedly we have the origin and cause of all subsequent confusion; the Vicars assume the ensigns of the Bishop, only retaining their bi-metal saltire; then, to make it more simple and save trouble, the smaller charges are omitted, and we have the Bishops using the arms really belonging to the Vicars.

This shield on the chimney-piece of the Common Hall was not put there as the arms of the See at all, but really to represent those of the Vicars.

The fifth shield bears the arms of Pomeroy. These are the undifferenced arms of the head of the family of Pomeroy of Berry Pomeroy in Devonshire. Richard Pomeroy was one of the Canons of the Cathedral, and Master of the fabric, but his place in the pedigree yet remains to be ascertained for certain. As there is no trace of any difference on the arms in the glass, he was probably a son of the head of the family.

Taking everything into careful consideration, we may safely conclude that these shields were painted after the reconstruction in the reign of Elizabeth.

Coming down the stairs and again into the open, the shields on the fronts of the houses next attract attention.

On the house in the corner to the left are the arms of Henry Parker, the well-known archæologist of Oxford, who gave a great deal of assistance in the restoration of the close—viz., Or, three inescutcheons sa., each charged with a pheon of the field. This shield being coloured and gilt.

Against the chimneys which run up the fronts of the houses are the arms of the See—viz., A saltire surmounting a pastoral staff, betw. on the dexter two keys addorsed and on the sinister a sword erect. In one instance, on a house on the west side, and not many doors up, this coat has been reversed in the course of restoration.

In panels on the fronts of the houses occur successively repeated the following: Bishop Beckington; Three sugar loaves and in chief a text ℔, for Hugh Sugar;

A fess betw. three swans, wings raised, Richard Swan ; A chev. betw. in chief two roses and in base a talbot pass., John Pope.

Richard Symonds, in his 'Diary,' mentions as being in a window of an old house at South Petherton these two shields : Arg., a chev. sa. betw. in chief two roses gu. and in base a talbot pass. of the last; and Gu., a saltire vaire betw. four mullets arg., Hill ; imp., Arg., a chev. sa. betw. two roses in chief gu. and in base a talbot pass. of the last. This is evidently the coat which appears in the Close, and supplies the colours which are there wanting. This coat has not been recorded for Pope, and its origin would be interesting to ascertain. Did it denote fidelity to the memory of benefit derived through the foundations of William of Wykeham, to which he may have been of founder's kin ? On the house in the north-west corner of the Close are four large fifteenth-century tilting shields ; they are charged thus :—

I. Beckington.

II. The saltire alone, The Vicars.

III. The saltire, pastoral staff, keys, and sword, The See.

IV. Quarterly : 1 and 4, A chev. betw. three leopards' faces; 2 and 3, On a fess betw. three leopards' faces as many fleurs-de-lys.

This shield is particularly useful as evidence, the first and fourth coat is the personal coat of Bishop Stillington, the second and third being that of his family, and with the help of the glass in the chapel proves that this prelate used a personal coat, placing a chevron between the leopards' faces instead of the fess and fleur-de-lys of his family, as mentioned under the account of the cloister roof on pp. 161, 162. Pugin, in his 'Examples,' vol. iii., calls the charges in the first and fourth quarters blackamoors' heads and omits the chevron. The chevron, it is true, is very doubtful, being very indistinct, while the fess is quite clear ; but there is not the slightest doubt about the leopards' heads. The family coat of Bishop Stillington leaves no doubt that it is his arms. He seems to have wanted to adopt a personal coat without the hackneyed mitre being introduced ; he could not simply leave out the fleur-de-lys, as it would then be the coat of the elder line of his family ; so he may in the first place have taken the fess away, and subsequently added the chevron. It may be that this shield was originally put up without the chevron, an attempt being made to add it after, but the space between favours the idea that it was originally there. This and the two examples in coloured glass in the adjoining chapel are most interesting instances of indecision in altering a family coat. There being few coats, slight variations were more admissible.

On the bell turret of the Chapel is a shield of Beckington imp. the See, the saltire and staff with the keys and sword, and over the shield a bishop's mitre. On the wall of the chapel facing the north Liberty is a shield with the arms of the See as just described, and another with St. Andrew holding his cross.

On the outside of the old oak door of the Chapel are carved four shields, namely :

I. (Sa.) two bars and in chief three roundles (plates), Hungerford.

II. A saltire surmounting a pastoral staff, betw. on the dexter two keys addorsed and erect, the bows interlaced, and on the sinister a sword erect, the See of Bath and Wells.

III. (Or.) A chev. (gu.) charged with a mitre, Bishop Stafford. It is singular that here and in a contemporary window in the Almshouse Chapel in Chamberlain Street, the engrailed bordure used as their proper difference by the Bishop's line of the Staffords is omitted, although it appears with the mitre on the chevron on his seal.

IV. A fess eng. betw. twelve holly leaves, 4, 4, 4, in quadrangles, Bishop Bubwith.

In the windows on the south side of the Chapel are six shields :—

I. Arg., on a fess sa. betw. twelve holly leaves vert, 4, 4, 4, in quadrangles, a mullet of third, Bubwith. In the glass the leaves are yellowish.

II. As the last, without the mullet.

III. Or, a bend betw. six martlets sa., Luttrell of Dunster Castle.

IV. Or, a fess az. surmounted by a bend gu., Elwes. This is modern.

V. Gu., a chev. erm. betw. three leopards' faces arg., probably Stillington.

VI. Gu., a chev. arg. betw. three leopards' faces or., Bishop Stillington.

Over the door is a window with these two shields : Az., a saltire per saltire and quarterly counterchanged or and arg., surmounting a pastoral staff betw. on the dexter two keys addorsed the bows interlaced, all of the second, and on the sinister a sword erect of the third, hilt and pomel gold. Intended for the See. The other shield has St. Andrew holding his cross. These last two are modern.

In this Chapel are two memorial inscriptions on brass plates, one under the East window reads :

John Hothershall Pinder, M.A., Principal of Theology in this College 1840-1865.

The other, on the South wall :

Arthur Nugent West, M.A., Student 1872, died at Zanzibar 1874.

Passing upstairs to the Library, we find in stone over the fire-place the monogram, T. B., surmounted by a mitre, between two beacon fires, the basket being formed of a barrel or tun, thus forming a rebus for Bishop Beckington—beacon-tun, a mode of representation dear to the brains of ecclesiastics about the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. This is a replica in plaster from the roof of the west cloister. At the tops of the jambs we have on one side the crest of Elwes, Five arrows, four in saltire and one in pale, entwined by a serpent; on the other side the initials, E. L. E., for the Rev. Edward Leighton Elwes, M.A., who took a great interest in the restoration of this building.

The Rev. E. L. Elwes is the seventh son of John Meggot Elwes, Esq., of Bossington, Hants, by Emily Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Causton, Canon of Westminster, and of Turweston, Bucks ; which Mr. J. M. Elwes was the second son of the second son of the well-known miser John Meggot, grandson of Sir George Meggot, who took the name of Elwes on inheriting the estates of his uncle Sir Hervey Elwes, Bart. The arms in the window of the Chapel below are really those of the head of the male line of the Elwes family, and should be duly differenced for this branch. See Burke's 'Extinct Baronetage.'

In the East window we have in the centre the Royal arms as used from James I. to James II. inclusive, with supporters, helmet, crown, and crest, viz., 1 and 4, France and England quarterly; 2, Scotland; 3, Ireland; and this motto, Beati Pacafici. To the north of this these arms : Az., a lion ramp. arg., over all on a bend ermines three dexter gauntlets of the second. Crest: A demi-lion ramp. or, holding a battle-axe arg. Motto: Fidelis ad urnam. For the Rev. Canon Church, M.A., Sub-Dean of Wells, formerly for a time Principal of this College. There should be a crescent in the arms for difference.

- Alice Emily Church, born 4 May 1876.

On the South side of the Royal arms this coat: Az., a stork's wings expanded arg., beak and legs or, on the breast an annulet sa. Crest: From a coronet or, a lion's paw holding a club ppr. Below the arms, Anno D'ni 1876; over them, B. G. For the Rev. Prebendary Gibson, M.A., Principal of the Theological College.

Prebendary Gibson being a fourth son, the mark on the heron is incorrect, it should be a martlet. Furthermore, though this coat has been considered by the family as their arms, yet there appears to be no such coat recorded for any family of Gibson, and the crest is that of the ancient family of Gibson of Lancashire, etc., traditionally said to be descended out of Scotland. Prebendary Gibson's family has also, in common with the Lancashire family, the tradition that one of the Popes had granted to the family the Papal arms for some special service; this would be the coat: Gu., three keys or, fessways in pale, wards to the dexter; used by the Scotch families of Gibson generally, which is a variation of the arms of the See of Rome: Gu., three keys or, two in saltire and one in pale. We may, therefore, fairly conclude that an accidental error has occurred in stating the arms to be one instead of three herons, as they correctly should be.

PEDIGREE OF GIBSON.

In the windows on the South side of the room are four shields, of which three are modern, they are:—

I. Or, three eagles displ. the wings depressed purp., Rodney of Rodney Stoke, now represented in the male line by Lord Rodney. A shield identical in appearance is in a window on the South side of Cheddar Church. This is old glass.

The burial of Henry Rodeney, son of Mr. William Rodeney, on 4 Sept. 1666 is recorded in the Cathedral Register; and of Mrs. Sarah Rodney, widow, on 31 Jan. 1698-9.

II. The incorrect or modern arms of the Diocese, that is the saltire of two metals alone, imp. Gu., on a bend arg. three trefoils slipped vert, intended for the present Bishop, Lord Arthur C. Hervey. It should have had, A martlet in chief arg., his proper difference as the fourth son of the first Marquis of Bristol; or it might have been made quarterly of his Lordship's four principal quarterings, thus: 1, Hervey, as in the window; 2, Felton of Playford, Gu., two lions pass. erm., crowned or; 3, Howard, Earl of Suffolk, Gu., on a bend betw. six cross-crosslets arg. an inescutcheon or, charged with a demi-lion wounded in the mouth by an arrow of the first, within a double tressure fleury counter-fleury of the last, a crescent sa. for diff.; 4, De Brotherton, Gu., three lions pass. gard. or, in pale, a label of three points arg.; on the centre of the quarterings a martlet az., for difference of a fourth son.

III. The same modern arms for the See, imp. Erm., on a bend eng. betw. two cocks gu. three mullets or, for Bishop Law; see pp. 189, 190.

IV. Quarterly, 1 and 4, Az., a chev. arg. betw. three lions' heads erased erm., crowned or, Pinder; 2 and 3, Az., a leopard ramp. or, the last probably for Hothersall. Being the arms of the Rev. J. H. Pinder, a memorial brass for whom is in the Chapel below.

THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE.

The old Archdeaconry, lying on the North side of the Cathedral, once the residence of Polydore Virgil, and which has long been in the hands of laymen, having been purchased by the trustees of the Theological College of Wells, has been restored and altered for the purposes of the College very judiciously under the direction of Mr. Edmund Buckle of London, as architect. Over the entrance have been carved the ancient arms of the See, restoring to the proper place the ensigns of Bath, the keys and sword on each side of the saltire, with the pastoral staff, a shield already so often blazoned it need not be formally repeated.

On the eight shields, held by angels forming the corbels of the ancient roof of the old hall, now the library, have been painted the following arms, representing persons mainly instrumental in the original founding of the College, the three Principals, with the Bishop and Dean at the time of the restoration.

Commencing at the north-west corner they are:

I. Erm., on a bend engrailed betw. two cocks gu. three mullets or pierced of the second, in chief on the bend an annulet arg., for the difference of a fifth son. For James Thomas Law, Esq., Chancellor of Lichfield and Coventry, and Master of St. John's Hospital, Lichfield, eldest son of Bishop Law. He was born 8 Dec. 1790, and died 22 Feb. 1876, having married 16 Dec. 1820 Lady Henrietta Charlotte Grey, eldest daughter of the sixth Earl of Stamford and Warrington, by whom, who died 25 Feb. 1866, he had, with others who died young, three sons and two daughters. See 'Peerage' for pedigree.

II. Per bend gu. and erm., in chief a demi-Catherine-wheel arg., Brymer. No pedigree has been supplied; the name will be found in the Cathedral.

III. Quarterly: 1 and 4, Or, a bend eng. betw. two lions ramp. gu., Dickinson;

2 and 3, Arg., three bars and a canton gu., Fuller; on an escutcheon of pretence, Arg., on a bend sa. three roses of the first, Cary. For Francis Henry Dickinson, Esq., of Kingweston, co. Somerset. For pedigree see Burke's 'Landed Gentry.'

IV. Pinder. As in a window in the library over the Vicar's Close Chapel, appended to the description of which a pedigree is added, except that the leopards are altered to lions ramp. arg. No authority was supplied by the family for either coat.

V. The ancient arms of the See; imp. Gu., on a bend arg. three trefoils vert, in chief a martlet for difference, Hervey. For the Right Hon. and Right Rev. Lord Arthur C. Hervey, now Bishop of Bath and Wells.

VI. Az., a saltire or betw. on the dexter two keys addorsed, one arg., the other of the second, and on the sinister a sword erect arg., hilt and pomel gold, the Deanery; imp. Arg., a chev. sa. betw. in chief two mullets and in base an annulet, all sa., on the chev. a fleur-de-lis arg. charged with a crescent gu., and a mullet gu. in chief, all for diff., Dean Plumptre. See the Deanery.

VII. Church. As in the library over the chapel in the Vicar's Close, adding, A crescent in chief arg., the difference of a second son. For Canon Church, Sub-Dean of Wells. A pedigree is given with the description of the shield.

VIII. Az., three herons arg., in chief a martlet for difference. For Prebendary Gibson, now President of the College. A further notice of the arms, with a pedigree, is given in the account of the shields in the library just referred to, where a pedigree appears.

Over the entrance of an ancient house, close to the East end of the Lady Chapel, known as the Precincts, are three shields of the tilting form, the centre is blank; on one of the others are two keys in saltire, the remaining bearing two swords in saltire; if really heraldic, the former are the arms of the See of Gloucester, and the latter those of the Bishopric of London, but they very probably are only fanciful.

On the gateway connecting the Vicar's Close and the Cathedral we have the arms of Beckyngton twice, once supported by angels.

Over the archway, leading from the market-place to the Cathedral Green, were the Royal arms, the arms of Bishop Beckyngton, and his badge or rebus, which last is also on a panelled projection on the inner side. The arms are almost obliterated.

In the roof of the gateway, leading from the market-place to the gatehouse of the Bishop's Palace, the arms of Beckyngton are cut in front of his rebus as if hung on the post. The shields on the front facing the market-place are quite obliterated.

From the wall just inside this gateway a stag springs supporting, or being supported by, a shield charged with the arms of Beckyngton, which projects almost horizontally below it. In the same wall is also a panel with the rebus of Bishop Beckyngton.

This exhausts the heraldry within the Cathedral Precincts, and brings our task to a close; not without some good result we trust, by having brought to light some things that had been overlooked by previous writers, bringing evidence to bear for the elucidation of obscure or debated points; while some facts have been preserved which, if not quite lost, would become increasingly difficult to obtain.

The following extracts from the Parish Register of St. Cuthbert, Wells, though not connected with any existing monument, as they are examples of the way in which the Cathedral Register and that of St. Cuthbert have been mixed up, may deserve a place here, though they do not profess to be exhaustive, and other instances will be found among extracts of particular families:—

Administration granted to John Paine of Wells, clerk, of the goods of John Paine the elder, late of Wells, his grandfather, left unadministered by John Paine, also deceased, son and administrator of the said John Paine the elder. Bondsmen, Thomas Hughes of Wells, gent., and Winchcombe Nooth, notary public of Wells. Bond sworn 27 March 1742.

Administration of the effects of William Paine of Wells, deceased, granted 5 Oct. 1736 to Edith Tucker, wife of Samuel Tucker of Evercreech, yeoman, and daughter of the deceased William Paine.

(Pages 5, 6, 7, and 192.)

There were two Canons, the Rev. John Paine, who died in 1774, and the Rev. Thomas Payne, who died in 1797, of entirely different families. Inquiries have not been very satisfactory in completing the pedigree to any extent, but the following helps to distinguish between them :—

The Rev. Thomas Payne, Vicar of Holme Lacy, co. Hereford. = Arms: Sable, a fesse between three leopards' faces or.

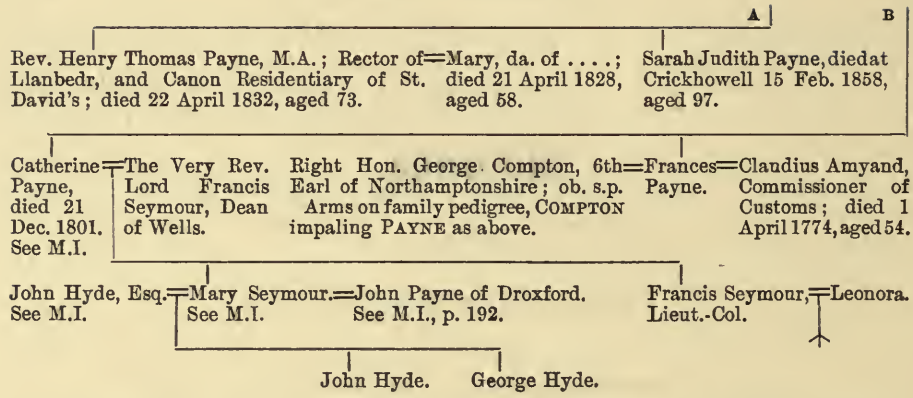
- Rev. Thomas Payne, M.A.; "Pastor of St. Cadoc in Breconshire;" Rector of Llangattock, near Crickhowell, and Canon of Wells; died 9 Jan. 1797, aged 81. See M.I. = Judith, da. of .... A
- B



The following, from an inscribed tablet on the wall of Llanbedr Church, except the line referring to himself, is from the pen of Canon Payne :—

"Sacred to the memory of Mary the Beloved wife of Henry Thomas Payne, M.A., Rector of this parish and Canon Residentiary of S^{t} David's.

"In pious hope she departed from this world of trouble on the 21st of April 1828 aged 58.

" Here sleeps my Mary in her narrow cell,
How soon we all must follow, who can tell!
Christian! Remember that by God's decree
All nature sinks into eternity.
Look round this Hallowed Fane; the scene displayed;
Like Life's short landscape, mixed with light and shade,
Like Life itself, uncertain in its day,
For time rolls on and none can bid it stay.
The Hill, the Vale, the Wood, the brawling stream,
All lost in time shall vanish like a dream,
Nay, time shall come when Heav'n and Earth, destroyed,
Shall sink in chaos, and become a void.
All things shall perish, and shall man presume
To think himself exempted from the Doom?
Presumptuous Mortal! Soon must come the day
When Thou Thyself, the last great debt shall pay.
How many lie within this Holy ground,
Entranced in Death till the last trump shall sound?
How many daily pass to Death,
To-day they breathe, to-morrow lose their breath;
The Rich, the Poor, the Great, the Gay, the Brave,
All, all are hastening to the silent grave.
Then Man, vain Man, prepare to kiss the rod,
To hear thy Judgment and to meet thy God.

H. T. P."

"Also the above Henry Thomas Payne, died April 22nd 1832, Aged 73."

In the same churchyard is buried the sister of Canon Payne, with a tombstone bearing the following inscription :—

✠ In memory of Sarah Judith Payne, who died at Crickhowel the 15th Feb. 1858, Aged 97.

Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen Thy Salvation. ✠

(Pages 38, 85.)

The following pedigree, compiled from the Cathedral MSS., adds some points to Mr. Ellacombe's pedigree in the 'Herald and Genealogist,' vol. iv., p. 195, establishing the place in the pedigree of the two Bishops of Bath and Wells of this family.

Arms of this family of BYTTON or BUTTON: Erm., a fess gu.

Robert de Button, son of Robert de Button. Vide Ped. Fin., 1237.

John de Button, Senior Prebendary of Comb, 1268. Had a Grant, as brother of the Bishop, of two parts of the Prebend of St. Decuman in 1249. By his will leaves money for the good of his soul, and the soul of his brother William, Bishop of Bath and Wells. Died before the Vigil of St. Nicholas, 1273.

Sir Adam de Button. Witness to a Grant of William, Bishop of Bath and Wells 1273.

William de Button, first of the name Bishop of Bath and Wells; consecrated 1248; died 1264.

Richard de Button, Vicar of St. Cuthbert, Wells; witness to a Confirmation by the Dean and Chapter of a Grant by Bishop William, dated Stephen's Day, 1248. On Tuesday after the Feast of St. Thomas, 1242, he was one of a deputation to the monks of Bath to act with the Chapter of Wells to elect a Bishop. William, Prior of the Hospital of St. John, Wells, promised Richard de Button, Precentor, in return for certain benefits, a full service yearly for the souls of the said Richard de Button, of Bishop William de Button, and their ancestors.

Sir John de Button.

Philip de Button. Inspeximus by the Dean and Chapter of a Grant by Bishop William de Button to Philip de Button of a burgage in Wells, etc., in 1251. In Jan. 1260 leave was granted by the Dean and Chapter for the celebration of divine service in his Chapel at Melsbury; John, Vicar of St. Cuthbert, consents provided all offerings of the said Philip and his family at the four great feasts, and those he is bound to pay as a parishioner to the mother Church, saving a penny a day for a chaplain, be paid to said John. For this he pays two shillings a year.

William de Button, elected Bishop of Bath and Wells 10 Feb. 1267. By deed dated St. Matthew's Day, 1273, grants all the service due to him from his brother Thomas de Button, Archdeacon of Wells, to which Sir Adam de Button and Philip de Button are witnesses.

Thomas de Button, Archdeacon of Wells; elected Dean of Wells 1284; became Bishop of Exeter, and died in 1307.

The exact connection of Bishop John Harewell with the Worcestershire family is not shewn by the Wells MSS.; he was probably brother of Roger, who is mentioned as father of Canon Roger Harewell, who in 1380 obtained from the Chapter a confirmation of a lease he had made of part of his canonical buildings. This Roger became Archdeacon of Bath, and was admitted to residence by the Chapter in 1392. Canon Roger Harewell presented to Compton Dundon in 1409, and to Mudford 1424. Richard Harewell was installed a Canon and Prebendary of Litton 1 Oct. 1361. He makes formal declaration that he desires to become a Residentiary 24 Sept. 1388. Canon Thomas Harewell in 1380 was acting for the Dean. Another Richard Harewell was instituted to the living of Trent in 1410, and to that of St. Cuthbert, Wells, in 1424. John Harewell, Rector of Berkeley, died in 1459.

William Harewell, who in the Worcestershire Visitation is recorded as having married Agnes, daughter of Sir Henry Owgan, presented to the living of Beercrocombe in 1454, 1457, and again in 1489, and to Capland in 1467, but died in 1504, when Agnes, the relict of William Harewell, presented to Beercrocombe and to Capland. Nor did this long connection of the family end then, for John,

(Page 43.)

Richard Symonds in his 'Diary' mentions the following coat as being in coloured glass at the church of Hinton St. George when he visited the place in 1644: Arg., on a fess az., betw. in chief three stags' heads caboshed or, and in base as many fleurs-de-lis sa., a bishop's mitre. The fleurs-de-lis are no doubt a mistake of Symonds for pheons.

1689 . . . . . Richard Bull of Midsomer Norton and Joane Tooker of the same place. (Mar. Lic. Allegations, Bishop's Registry, Wells.)

Mrs. Sarah Thring died 26 Sept. 1891; her son, Theodore Thring, Esq., died 28 Sept. 1891. They were both buried at the same time in plain graves, side by side, to the east of the chancel of Alford Church.

The following pedigree does little more than suggest additions to Mr. Greenfield's, already quoted, and is wholly compiled from the Cathedral MSS.; at the same time it corrects the errors in the Harl. MS., which was partly Mr. Greenfield's authority.

The Cathedral MSS. shew no evidence that Mary de Drokensford brought the Manor of Shipham to the Clyvedon family, but rather that Clyvedon had it from Malherb, which is supported by the Hastings quarterings at North Cadbury, among which are, Or, a lion ramp. az. crowned gu., Clyvedon, and Arg., three nettle-leaves gu., Malherb. But no coat of Drokensford.

Drokensford.

Philip de Drokensford. = ... (?), da. and heiress of de Harptre or Popham.

John de Drokensford, from whom his nephew, Philip de Drokensford, held lands in Wivelscombe.

Henry de Mudesley, whose son =

Richard de Drokensford, brother of the Bishop, made Chancellor 8 Jan. 1310. In 1316 the Bishop collates his brother Richard de Drokensford to a Prebendal Stall.

Philip de Drokensford, = brother of the late Bishop John de Drokensford; confirmed the Grant by Johanna Perceval, relict of Sir Roger Perceval, of land in, and the church of, Exford; dated at Drokensford 6 Edw. III. (1332-3).

John de Drokensford, Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1309—1329; ob. 9 May 1329.

Michael = Drokensford, brother of Bishop Drokensford.

Robert Malherb quit-claims to Peter the Dean half a virgate of land in Wedmore. He appears as a witness to deeds in 1246 and 1256. =

Michael de Drokensford. Instituted to the Rectory of Chedzoy in 1317. Nephew of Bishop Drokensford. Collated to the Stall of Dulcote in 1316, and to a house held by Richard his brother in 1328.

Richard de Drokensford. On 14 Nov. 1326 the Bishop collates his nephew Richard de Drokensford to the Stall of Yatton. In 1327 he is made a Canon and Precentor. He grants power of attorney to Philip de Drokensford to seek arrears due from the Priory of Hexham.

William Malherb, to whom Edw. I., by deed dated 5 June An. Reg. 2 (1274), grants a weekly market in his manor of Shipham, and a fair for three days at the Feast of St. Leonard. =

Adam Malherb. Exchanged with Robert Malherb lands in Loxton, which he had as a grant from Hawice de Sperkford, for lands in Shipham.

Hugh Malherb. Witness to a Charter of Robert Malherb.

John de Clyvedon, miles. Will = dated the Vigil of St. Lawrence 1336; names his wife and two sons; proved 4 Sept. 1336, before John de Myddleton, Vicar of Shepton Beauchamp, Commissary of Ralph, Bishop of Bath and Wells. (Reg. Rad. de Salopia, fol. 144.)

Lady Emmeline, with her two sons proved the will of her late husband.

Robert Malherb, = granted to his da. Sara half a virgate of land, etc. Lord of Shipham. Witness Gervase de Sparkford.

Margarie de Malherb, widow, grants to Matthew de Clyvedon, Knt., the curia of "Schepham," which had been her dowry; given at Schipham on Sunday next after St. Thomas, 15 Edw. II. (1322).

Edmund de Clyvedon.

Matthew de Clyvedon, Knt.; granted to John de Clyvedon his son, = and to Maria de Drokensford, wife of the said John, possession of lands in Shipham, 12 Edw. II. (1318-19).

Sara Malherb.

Andrew, son of Philip de Drokensford, collated to the Stall of Yatton 12 April 1321, a Canon in 1323, and held St. Mawgan in Kynier in Cornwall. Andrew de Drokensford, Prebendary of Yatton, pays to the Chapter money raised on the goods of the late Prebendary. Named as kinsman by Bishop Drokensford 7 Aug. 1322, being then at the University.

A

Thomas de Drokensford, nephew of the Bishop, collated to the Stall of Ilton in 1327, and to Dundon on 5 Nov. 1327.

(Pages 124—126.)

1707 July 23 Joseph Musgrave of Stoke S^{t} Mary, sergemaker, and Ann Sellick of West Monkton, spinster, aged 24. Her father and mother consenting. At S^{t} Cuthbert. (Mar. Alleg. at Wells.)

There is a monument at Buckland Newton for Ann, first wife of the Rev. Nathaniel Sellick, who died in 1680. He was buried at Clifton Campville, co. Stafford.

Penelope, relict of John Sellick, and daughter of Sir John Newton, of Barr's Court, was buried at Stanton Drew, having died 28 May 1722.

Among the Cathedral MSS. are two grants from Bishop Clarke to his brother, Thomas Clarke of Wooky, and his daughter Alice Clarke.

The coat used for the See in the Ken memorial window is not quite correctly described; it is quite a new variation—namely, the keys are in saltire, and the sword has the point in base.

Beneath the above Ken window, since that part of this Work was printed, a brass plate has been fixed in memory of the late Dean Plumptre, with the following inscription :—

In memoriam
Edwardi Hayes Plumptre, M.A., S.T.P.
Decani Wellensis
qui hanc fenestram in honorem insignis episcopi Thomæ Ken decorandam curavit
obdormivit in Christo Kæl. Feb. MDCCCXCI.
hanc tabulam posuere
mœrentes college.

1720 July 27 Alexander Chreyghton of Glastonbury, mercer, and Hannah Lush of Witham Friary, spinster, aged 28. Mother consenting. To marry at Witham Friary or Cloford. (Mar. Alleg. at Wells.)

It may be as well to mention that Archdeacon Hill used on his official seal the same arms as are placed on his monument.

The association of Kilmington with Hampshire was an oversight for Kilmiston in that county.

Elizabeth, daughter of Charles and Mary Tudway, married the Rev. Francis Drake, vicar of Seaton, Devon, etc., and mother (with others who died young or unmarried) of Francis Drake, buried, with a monument, in St. Cuthbert's Church, leaving several children; Clement Drake, married, left issue; and Ann Drake married the Rev. Edward Foster of Wells.

In the account of the heraldry in the Vicars' Common Hall, the following was omitted: On the frame of the painting representing the Vicars receiving their statutes from Bishop Beckington are four modern shields—viz., Beckington as in the Cathedral, arms of Queen Elizabeth, the coat for the Vicars as on chimney-piece, and Arg., a lion ramp. sa. crowned or, on a canton az. a chev. betw. three acorns of the third, Ducane; for the Rev. Arthur Ducane (see page 248).
